U.S. WAGES WAR WITH WEATHER

New York Times

WASHINGTON — The United States has been secretly seeding clouds over North Vietnam, Laos and South Vietnam to increase and control the rainfall for military purposes.

One well-informed source also said that navy scientists were responsible for developing a new kind of chemical agent effective in the warm stratus clouds that often shield many key anti-aircraft sites in northern parts of North Vietnam.

The chemical, he said, "produced a rain that had an acidic quality to it and it would foul up mechanical equipment — like radar, trucks and tanks."

Government sources, both civilian and military, said during an extensive series of interviews that the U.S. Air Force cloud-seeding program has been aimed most recently at hindering movement of North Vietnamese troops and equipment and suppressing anti-aircraft missile fire.

The disclosure confirmed growing speculation in congressional and scientific circles about the use of weather modification in Southeast Asia.

The weather manipulation in Indochina, which was first tried in South Vietnam in 1963, is the first confirmed use of meteorological warfare. Although it is not prohibited by any international conventions on warfare, artificial rain-making has been strenuously opposed by some U.S. state department officials.

Beginning in 1967, some state department officials protested that the United States, by deliberately altering the natural rainfall in parts of Indochina, was taking environmental risks of unknown proportions. But many advocates of the operation have found little wrong with using weather modification as a military weapon.

"What's worse," one official asked "dropping bombs or rain?"

Officially, the White House and state department declined comment on the use of meteorological warfare. "This is one of those things where no one is going to say anything," one official said.

Most officials interviewed agreed that the seeding had accomplished one of its main objectives — muddying roads and flooding lines of communication.

According to interviews, the Central Intelligence Agency initiated the use of cloud seeding over Hue, in the northern part of South Vietnam. "We first used that stuff in about August of 1963," one former CIA agent said, "when the Diem regime was having all that trouble with the Buddhists.

"They would just stand around during demonstrations when the police threw tear gas at them, but we noticed that when the rains came they wouldn't stay on" the former agent said.

7 More Irish Deaths

BELFAST (UPI) — One of the bloodiest weekends of Ulster violence pushed the death toll today to 400 for the three years of Northern Ireland terror and threatened to smash the week-old ceasefire.

Police said two bullet-riddled and hooded bodies were discovered in Belfast today, bringing to seven the number of persons killed in gunbattles or executed by militants this weekend.

The body of a man was found in a car abandoned near Belfast's Crumlin Road jail before dawn, and a passerby on his way to work in the same area found the body of a young man dumped in Twickenham Street.

STILL ANOTHER

Police said they also were on the lookout for a man who may be still another execution victim — August "Gusty" Spence, a 39-year-old Protestant who had been serving a life sentence for murdering a Roman Catholic bartender in 1966. Gunmen kidnapped Spence Sunday night as he was returning to jail from a two-day parole granted to allow him to attend his daughter's wedding and visit his ailing mother.

Both the IRA and the British army emphasized they considered the ceasefire still in force despite the heavy gun battle Sunday morning in Belfast's Old Park area and fresh outbursts early today between Protestants, Catholics and troops across the M-1 superhighway leading to Dublin.

They were identified as truck driver Hugh Clawson and bus driver David Fischer, both 39.

Like an unidentified body of a man dumped from a car soon afterward in the Forth River of West Belfast, they had been shot through the head, the hallmark of extremist executions.

CAMP WORKER

Two more victims of the first weekend since the IRA declared a ceasefire last Monday were Daniel Hayes, 42, a Catholic, and Paul Jobling, a 19-year-old Jehovah's Witness.

The wave of killings occurred as the Protestant paramilitary Ulster Defence Association created the first barricaded Protestant "no go" areas in Northern Ireland in protest against the British army's failure to wipe out IRA-controlled Catholic "no-go" areas in Londonderry.

PROTESTANT JUSTICE is meted out by cudgel-wielding members of the Ulster Defence Association who stand guard in Belfast over a youth from the Protestant Shankhill Road district. Youth was beaten, charged with "breaking and entering" and "attempted indecent assault."

'Excessive French' July 1 Sparks Sharp Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — Protests against alleged excessive use of French marked the aftermath of Dominion Day festivities on Parliament Hill. Although thousands of local residents and tourists obviously enjoyed themselves at the show, two members of Parliament later criticized what they felt was dominance of the event by the French language.

Two members of Parliament complained bitterly that the French language had dominated the musical presentations.

They referred to Montreal pianist Andre Gagnon, whose renditions of his own compositions were well received by the audience.

Gagnon, who is not fluent in English, spoke in French when he introduced the works. His comments were translated into English by an unseen announcer so that strollers and listeners missed none of his words.

But local Liberal MP Lloyd Francis (Ottawa West) called the French introductions "monstrously bad taste."

He said "the program certainly was not in the spirit of bilingualism."

J. Angus MacLean, Conservative member for Malpeque, also criticized alleged French dominance of the performance and called for an explanation.

They were joined in the criticism by Alex Campbell, premier of Prince Edward Island who was with a group of 60 from his province in Ottawa to promote 1973 as the centennial of the island province joining Confederation.

Skyjacker Slain

Times News Services

A 24-year-old Vietnamese who had just graduated with honors from the University of Washington in Seattle was shot dead in Saigon Sunday in an abortive attempt to hijack a Pan Am jumbo jet.

Nguyen Thai Binh had demanded that the Boeing 747 be flown to Hanoi. He brandished a bomb — which turned out to be two lemons wrapped in tinfoil — to enforce his demands.

He had earlier grabbed a hostess as hostage and sent two notes, one written in his own blood, to the captain, Gene Vaughan, asking that the Saigon-bound plane with 149 persons aboard head for North Vietnam.

Instead, Vaughan landed in Saigon and went aft saying I wanted to reason with him."

Vaughan jumped the skyjacker and: "I shouted 'Kill the son of a bitch' and a passenger put five bullets into him."

The man who shot Binh was not identified. He is believed to be a former San Francisco area policeman.

Port Talks Resume

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernard Wilson, deputy labor minister, was meeting with both sides today to try to find a solution to the 48-day dock strike that has crippled three St. Lawrence River ports.

MONEY NEEDS URGENT: QUEBEC

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said at the weekend he is ready to "use whatever means are necessary" to assure a larger share of federal money for Quebec and the other provinces.

"We have shown almost oriental patience in the last two years, but now it has become important that there be a net transfer of revenue in the next fiscal year," he said in a radio interview.

"It is not a question of having a shouting match with the federal government.

"It is a question for the provinces, and particularly in my case for Quebec, that there is sufficient revenue to meet our responsibilities and it now is urgent that necessary means to acomplish this be discussed."

Pakistan, India Sign Peace Pact

New York Times

SIMLA, India — India and Pakistan have agreed to withdraw all troops from the tense borders between the two countries, to freeze present troop positions in Kashmir pending further negotiations on that explosive dispute and to undertake a "step by step" normalization of their relations.

The agreement, putting an end to the diplomatic impasse that has existed since the two-week war between the two countries last December, was signed early today by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan.

After five days of negotiations on the terms of the settlement, both sides of the two leaders put the finishing touches on the agreement late Sunday night.

The pact, described by an Indian spokesman as "an international agreement capable of being filed with the United Nations," binds the often quarreling neighbor states to seek peaceful solutions to the problems that have taken them to war four times since they came into existence 25 years ago.

Troop withdrawals along the border are to begin 30 days from ratification of the agreement.

However, in accordance with a promise made by Bhutto to his nation's parliament, the agreement actually will come into effect only upon its acceptance by the Pakistan National Assembly. That body was scheduled to meet Aug. 15, but Bhutto could call an earlier session.

A high Pakastani official declared that the agreement is only a beginning toward a final settlement of the Kashmir dispute, which is held to be the key to a lasting peace between the two countries.

The repatriation of some 70,000 Pakistani troops and about 20,000 Pakistani civilians held by India since the December war has been listed as one of the questions to be settled by summit negotiations, which may again involve a summit meeting between Mrs. Gandhi and Bhutto.

OIL SPILL ACCORD

Premier Bennett and Washington Governor Dan Evans will sign a joint agreement on oil spill prevention and clean-up next Monday at the Blaine Peace Arch.

A memorandum of agreement between the state and the province has been formulated by a committee of legislators and civil servants that has been meeting recently.

No details of the agreement have been announced, but it will list the steps the two governments will take in the event of an oil spill and will aim at prevention of spills in the future.

The meeting started after an oil spill June 4 at the Atlantic Richfield refinery at Cherry Point. Oil from the spill drifted north and fouled beaches in B.C., notably White Rock.

An aide to Evans said the meeting between Bennett and Evans is believed to be the first ever between a Washington governor and a B.C. premier.

The aide said the two government heads will also discuss other issues "that range the whole spectrum of problems between the two areas, including fisheries and other environmental affairs."

DAD COLLECTS VASECTOMY PRIZE

HONOLULU (UPI) — Frank Silvers, 29, father of 10-month-old twin boys won first prize in a contest sponsored by Zero Population Growth.

"I feel fine," said Silvers a few hours after collecting the prize — a free vasectomy.

DRUG PROBER HAD HASHISH

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lawrence Paul Rubin, who says he worked for a couple of weeks two years ago in field research for the Le Dain commission on the non-medical use of drugs, has been fined $350 for possession of hashish.

Rubin, 28, of Ituna, Sask., Manitoba-Saskatchewan coordinator for a federal project dealing with the non-medical use of drugs, pleaded guilty.

Boy Drowns At Beaver

The accident occurred at 10 a.m. when the boys were swimming on the west side of the lake, opposite the life guarded area.

The victim apparently got a cramp, and then became tangled in weeds 20 feet from shore.

Andre Doiron, 718 Menzies, heard cries for help and went to the area. He pulled the boy from the water who had weeds wrapped around his neck and arms. The dead boy, also tangled, was not in sight.

Saanich police and fire department officials arrived about 20 minutes later. Navy divers had found no trace of the body at nightfall.

The boy's name is being withheld until next-of-kin have been notified.

Saanich Police Insp. John Post said the department wanted to warn swimmers as the season progresses that swimming in other than designated areas, at recreation spots is dangerous.

Weeds and irregular terrain in non-designated areas make venturing into them "extremely hazardous," Post said.

Victoria Racer Loses Rudder

After leading the Victoria-Mauri yachts Sunday, Bob Horner's Pandora of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club is out of the race with a broken rudder.

At last report today, she was returning under her own power with a makeshift steering device and apparently headed for Grays Harbor on the Washington coast.

At daily roll call time Sunday skipper W. F. Nesbit's 38-foot sloop Flame of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club were ahead of the other boats past Cape Flattery at the mouth of the Juan de Fuca Strait.

Both boats were about 130 miles out in the Pacific, on course for Hawaii.

Following in their wake about five miles behind was Don Findlay's Bluey II of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Findlay crewed aboard J. P. Tilms' Long Gone in 1970, when she won the first Victoria-Mauri race, and longed Bluey II in order to have a try at the classic in his own boat.

HEADS SOUTH

Four American boats were grouped behind Bluey II. They are Tom Bush's Satin Doll and T. M. Mirto's Patriot, both of Corinthian Yacht Club; G. O. Smith's Siren of the Tacoma Yacht Club and W. B. Black's Cherokee of CYC.

One boat of the 19-strong fleet followed a different strategy, which may pay off. D. L. Peoples' Co-Motion of CYC, instead of heading west, was working her way down the Washington coast toward California.

Co-Motion's strategy is to avoid the predicted Pacific high further out.

However, if the remainder of the fleet are able to work the airway around the high Co-Motion could find herself bringing up the rear.

MARTHA WINS: JOHN QUITS NIXON POST

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Mitchell, apparently bowing to an ultimatum telephoned to the world by his irrepressible wife, has resigned as director of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The committee for the re-election of the president announced the former United States attorney-general was stepping down, less than a week after Martha Mitchell told reporters she was leaving him until he got out of politics.

She made known her discontent last Sunday and Monday from the Westchester Country Club at Rye, N.Y. Mitchell joined her there Monday and they returned to Washington in midweek, apparently reconciled.

But apparently the reconciliation was on Martha's terms, because the announcement said Mitchell "has resigned as campaign director in order to devote more time to his wife and family."

Deadline Set for Fischer

Times News Services

With a 5 a.m. Victoria time deadline looming Tuesday for Bobby Fischer, the international chess world is beginning to seethe over the U.S. grand master's prima donna tactics in stalling a world championship series.

Fischer, who Sunday was ordered to be at the board in Reykjavik by noon Tuesday (Icelandic time) or be disqualified in his title shot against Boris Spassky of Russia, today was accused of a "blatant extortion attempt" by one of the series' sponsors.

The world series of chess was originally scheduled to open Sunday with a $125,000 purse at stake. Under the terms of the series the winner would get five-eighths of the purse.

Each player was also to get 30 per cent of the proceeds from TV and movie rights to the series.

Late last week, Fischer from a New York hideout, demanded that he also be given 30 per cent of the gate receipts from the series.

Meanwhile, a British banker today came up with a cash offer that might change Fischer's mind by offering to throw another $130,000 into the kitty.

"Fischer has said money is the problem, here's the money," challenged James D. Slater.

Slater said that his $130,000 could be used in one of two ways, either on a winner-take-all basis or tacked onto the purse and added to the price split.

Spassky, however, remained unperturbed over the controversy surrounding the series.

Doukhobor Protests Continue

GRAND FORKS (CP) — Twenty-four members of the Radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were arrested Sunday after a demonstration in front of the Grand Forks home of Orthodox Doukhobor leader John Verigin.

Eight women and one man were arrested on charges of public nudity and 13 women and two men were arrested for violating the condition of their probation by entering Grand Forks.

The Union of Spiritual Communities of Christ office in Grand Forks, the headquarters of the orthodox Doukhobors, was guarded Sunday by the sect's members.

RCMP said 11 of those arrested are awaiting trial July 25 for their alleged part in an earlier incident. One of the conditions of bail granted last week was that they remain outside a 10-mile radius of Grand Forks.

Another four were convicted of nudity June 22 and ordered to stay outside a two-mile radius of the Verigin home.

Gastown Searched

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are searching the Gastown district of downtown Vancouver for a man who robbed a jewelry store of gems valued at $40,000.

The man entered Carat Jewelers and asked to see some diamonds. He was shown a tray of stones that included diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires.

Police said the man grabbed the gems, ran into the street and disappeared.

BCR Derailment

PRINCE GEORGE — Sixteen cars of a 61-car British Columbia Railway freight train went off the tracks late Saturday about 125 miles north of here.

A railway spokesman said it would be at least two days before the track was cleared. There were no injuries. Cause of the derailment was unknown.

Escapers Caught

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men arrested at Vancouver International Airport on a bank robbery charge were identified as escapees from a Quebec prison.

Prosecutor Al Cliffe said Michael Daoust, 21, was in fact Conrad Gratton, and Rene Frappier, 31, was James Cyrille Jacques Ashton. He said both had escaped recently from Cowansville Prison in Quebec. They were arrested after two men were seen to step out of line while waiting to board an Air Canada flight to Montreal after a warning that luggage would be searched.

Youth Missing

HANEY (CP) — RCMP in this community continued the search today for a slightly retarded 15-year-old boy who became lost Friday in Golden Ears Provincial Park 30 miles east of Vancouver. Harold Booth of Vancouver wandered away while on a trip to the park, and police think he may have reached a highway where he started hitch-hiking.

N. Viets Put Pressure on Hue

TIMES News Services

SAIGON — Communist gunners fired 675 rockets, mortar and artillery rounds into Hue and its outer defences today and two large, equally matched units slugged it out with tanks and artillery north of the old imperial capital in a South Vietnamese attempt to recapture Quang Tri province.

A 20,000-man government force is driving north from Hue to try to take back Quant Tri — the only South Vietnamese province ever captured by the Communists.

With most of Hue's defenders sent north to try to recapture Quang Tri, Communists increased the pressure on the old imperial capital and threatened a long-expected, major attack on the city.

A 1,000-man South Vietnamese paratroop unit, backed by air power, artillery and tanks, fought a savage battle with a North Vietnamese force of the same size only two miles south of Quang Tri city, the provincial capital.

A senior U.S. commander here said he expects South Vietnamese troops to retake Quang Tri "pretty darn fast" because the military and psychological factors that led to the loss of the province two months ago have been eliminated.

He also said that North Vietnamese troop strength in the south is half what it was on March 30 when this spring's offensive began, and that Hanoi's capacity to import, manufacture and transport weapons and strategic materials has been virtually eliminated by intensive U.S. bombing and the mining of North Vietnam's harbors.

Even the factory in Hanio that manufactured the pontoon bridges used to replace the permanent bridges levelled by U.S. bombs has been "blown to smithereens," he said.

Meanwhile, informed sources in Washington said North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong is reported to be critically ill, and his sickness is believed to be creating problems within the Hanoi leadership.

Official U.S. informants say the North Vietnamese premier is suffering from cancer, while diplomats with links in Hanoi report that he has a serious heart condition.

Cashless Life — A Long Way Off

OTTAWA (CP) — The cashless society still is a long way off and may never come in the full sense of the term, says the current issue of the Bank of Canada Review.

Despite the growing use of cheques, credit cards and computers, the amount of money in circulation continues to grow to meet the daily needs of the public, the publication says.

An article on banknotes and coins making up part of the so-called money supply says the use of cash has increased almost as much as total consumer expenditure per capita in recent years.

The reasons given are the continued use of cash for many small purchases, both of necessities and of small luxuries, and the insistence of the big food supermarkets on cash payment.

Another factor is the large number of children and young people who want and use cash.

At the beginning of the year, there was more than $4.1 billion in Bank of Canada notes issued, of which $3.5 billion was in the hands of the general public. The remaining $500 million was in the tills of the chartered banks, available to meet hourly transaction needs.

Bank of Canada statistics showed another $483 million circulating in coins.

But these are relatively small amounts compared with the $34.5 billion of Canadian-dollar deposits in the chartered banking system. It is this account-book money, handled by cheques for the most part, that makes up the bulk of the total money supply.

The Bank of Canada Review, published by the bank, said figures on banknotes in circulation refer only to banknotes that have been issued by the Bank of Canada through its nine branch offices across the country. How much of it has been lost or destroyed, nobody knows.

Hurt Woman Shoved Down Manhole

Ki Ok-Sung, 54, was not seriously injured and was found nearly two hours later by children playing in the area.

Whale Hunt Moratorium Rejected

LONDON (CP) — The International Whaling Commission has rejected a United States proposal for a 10-year moratorium on all whale hunting.

Canada was one of four countries which abstained from voting at the 24th annual meeting of the commission. Six countries voted against the proposal and four in favor.

William Sprules, the Canadian delegate, said Canada abstained because the resolution was too broad to enable him to support it. Some species have been shown to be nowhere near extinction, Sprules said, and it would make no sense to ban hunting of these types.

The resolution before the 14-country commission was drawn up at the recent environment conference in Stockholm. It was strongly opposed by the major whale-hunting states — Japan and the Soviet Union.

Fire Destroys Section of School

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — Fire destroyed an old section of Elm Elementary School. Twn new wings, added to the school eight years ago were only slightly damaged. School official Don Timchuk said there should be no problem opening the school on schedule in September.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

John Duncan Walker, 56, of no fixed address was sentenced by Judge William Ostler in provincial court Saturday to 10 days for vagrancy.

Walker was arrested at 8:30 a.m. June 29 sleeping in Centennial Square.

John Davis Smethurst, 21, of Surrey, was told by Ostler he was "not as mild a man as you appear" and sentenced him to two months in jail for the dangerous use of a firearm.

Smethurst, a former drug addict, was arrested at 10:15 on the night of May 30 after firing several shots from a .32 calibre revolver in the 100 block Wharf St. and 600 and 700 block Yates St.

The gunman told the court he had been intoxicated at the time from a mixture of prescription drugs and alcohol, and had bought the weapon for $60 at the Churchill Hotel while intoxicated.

Elizabeth Speck, 32, of 1142 Caledonia was given a suspended sentence and 18 months probation by Ostler for attempting to pass an incorrect income tax return for $273.11 at "The Warehouse" grocery store at 47 Songhees, June 5.

A 25-year-old man was fined $275 in provincial court Saturday by Judge F. S. Green for stealing three steaks valued $2.25 a pound from Canada Safeway Ltd., 455 Simcoe St. on April 25.

William R. Stewart, of 489 Grafton, who attempted to defend himself, was told by Judge Green in passing sentence that he did not believe the accused had raised enough evidence to convince him he did not plan to steal the steaks.

Stewart had said he planned to buy the steaks but had gone outside to see if a friend wanted to share the price with him.

Harvey Paul Bob, 19, of Powell River was sentenced to eight months in penitentiary, on top of sentences he is already serving, on a Colwood RCMP charge of escaping from William Head by Judge William Ostler in Victoria provincial court Thursday.

Bob left William Head shortly after midnight Tuesday after an argument with a guard. He was recaptured about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday near the institution.

David Campbell Bowen, 25, of 10279 Tsaykum was fined a total of $300, put on probation for two years, and ordered to repay $149.55 to the Bay for cashing four cheques on empty bank accounts in May and June at the Bay for a total of $95 and for using an invalid credit card twice to obtain goods worth $54.55.

In traffic court Thursday Judge E. F. N. Robinson ordered a two-month jail term for Jack Stewart Brown, 22, of 1476 Gladstone for possession of the illicit drug MDA.

One capsule of the drug was found on Brown, June 17 when Victoria police checked him at a Victoria address.

Cars Face Ban in Calif. Smog

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Five southern California mayors say they will limit auto traffic in their cities on heavy-smog days unless the state requires all cars in the south coast air basin to convert to natural gas or propane fuel by January.

The city of Riverside has asked for the conversion of cars in the basin and a study group appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan is considering the request.

The basin includes all or part of Los Angeles, Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside and Santa Barbara counties.

Mayor W. R. Holcomb of San Bernardino said the people of his city are ready to accept sacrifice to help clean the air, and announced he would "issue a decree" banning cars in his city on heavy-smog days beginning next summer if the conversion is not ordered. The mayors of Riverside, Palm Springs, Indio and Desert Hot Springs said they would support similar action in their cities.

Mayor Ben Lewis of Riverside said: "We're in a state of emergency, maybe disaster." Riverside underwent its fourth smog alert in four days Friday.

the Victoria shoreline Saturday morning to watch the start of the race off Brotchie Ledge. A flotilla of small boats was also on hand to watch the beginning of the fourth biennial classic.

She is competing in the 3,571-mile race from Los Angeles to Tahiti and is expected to cross the finish line at Papeete Tuesday.

By Sunday she was 475 miles off Papeete, leading the seven-boat fleet but fifth in position on corrected time handicap. Leading boat, on handicap, was the French sloop Pen Duick III, 322 miles behind her.

TAKE 15 DAYS

The 2,300-mile Victoria-Maui race could last anywhere from 15 to 25 days, depending on the size of the boats.

The largest boat out there is F. H. Zahn's 53-foot Odusa of CYC, who will have to cross the finish line at Black Rock, three miles from Lahaina, three days ahead of Bill Gardner's 33-foot yawl Lucy Alice of the same club, if she is to beat her.

This is Gardner's third stab at top honors.

In 1970 Lucy Alice was top boat in division III and this could be the year that Gardner pulls off the biggest one of all, over-all winner.

Two Royal Canadian Sea Cadets are also on their way to Maui — but not under sail.

The two boys have been given berths aboard the navy tug St. Anthony, which is acting as escort vessel for the competing yachts.

Woods Talks Continue With Little Reported

Meetings were scheduled to continue today between Forest Industrial Relations and the International Woodworkers of America coast negotiating team, one of the few active areas in the still-troubled B.C. labor situation.

FIR and the IWA committee met Saturday and Sunday, but nothing was reported from the meetings.

About 28,000 IWA members are out on strike after walking off their jobs June 22.

It is expected that the results of the weekend's meetings with FIR will be put to the IWA membership for a vote.

Jack Moore, negotiating committee chairman, said the last proposal from FIR will likely be voted upon sometime this week.

The proposal offers an increase of 36.5 cents an hour in each year of a two-year contract along with pension and health plan benefits. The base rate is $3.72 an hour.

Elsewhere in the labor scene, no movement was being made in the construction industry dispute today, with negotiators apparently taking the weekend off.

Six of the 18 unions in the B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council are still without settlements with the Construction Labor Relations Association and have decided to bargain as a unit.

Their dispute has gone to the B.C. Mediation Commission, which is conducting hearings with CLRA and will impose a binding settlement on the six unions. The six are boycotting the mediation commission's hearings.

Three of the six unions — electricians, plumbers and carpenters — constitute the largest unions in the construction industry and their absence from construction sites has resulted in a two-month-long delay in building projects.

McGovern 'Pot and Porn' Candidate: Agnew

Times News Services

NEW YORK — Pot and pornography.

Those would be the cornerstones of a McGovern administration, according to U.S. vice-president Spiro Agnew.

Agnew, in a speech to a right-wing group here, called the presidential candidacy of the South Dakota senator "one of the greatest frauds ever."

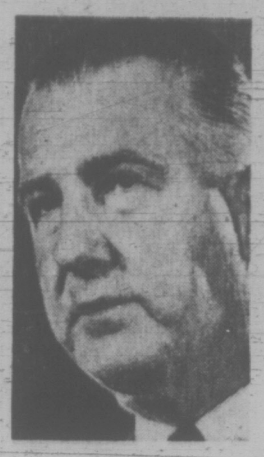
He compared McGovern to pre-Second World War British prime minister Neville Chamberlain, who signed a pact with Hitler, as an "apostle of appeasement."

However, in a McGovern administration, there would be no crime, the vice-president pointed out.

"Because, in a pot/porn society, there are no criminals, only root causes of crime."

"And as each day passes,"



AGNEW

Agnew added, "despite the efforts of his allies in the liberal media to cover up his defects as a candidate — the American people are coming to know, by George McGovern's own words, that in McGovernism we find the seeds of the downfall of our great republic."

He singles out a remark of McGovern's in South Carolina earlier this week for the roughest part of his remarks.

During a meeting with South Carolina delegates to the Democratic national convention, McGovern had been asked by one of the delegates about his views on Vietnam and returning the prisoners of war.

One delegate asked the senator: "You want us to do all they demand and then beg them to give back our boys."

McGovern had replied: "I'll accept that. Begging is better than bombing. I would go to Hanoi and beg if I thought that would release the boys one day earlier. But begging won't help if we bomb and aid the Thieu government."

Agnew commented: "I find this an incredible admission by a man who would lead the American people. It expresses a philosophy so callow and short-sighted as to be repugnant to the tradition of a free people."

Even Neville Chamberlain did not carry a beggar's cap to Munich — as George McGovern proposes to carry to Hanoi.

The vice-president also called McGovern "the darling of the advocates of American retreat and defeat."

He added: "It is McGovern, not the president, who is playing politics with the lives of American prisoners of war by giving encouragement to America's enemies in Hanoi."

Turning to a theme of "radical liberalism" that he has used before, Agnew broadened his criticism to take in the entire Democratic Party.

"The Democratic Party," he said, "was once thought of by many as the party of the immigrant, the worker, the producer. Today under its new leadership it is becoming the party of the radicals, the welfarists, the elitists. The old liberal Democratic establishment has lost the power which once made it the dominant force in American politics.

He flatly termed McGovern "the radical candidate." He said McGovern had "cut his political teeth as a delegate to Henry Wallace's Progressive Party convention in 1948," and said that if McGovern is elected president America would be left with "nothing to fight with," because the senator "intends to cut the heart out of our program of national defence."

RCMP Replaces Yarmouth Police

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — RCMP took over police duties in this town of 9,000 late Sunday on the order of Attorney-General Leonard Pace of Nova Scotia.

The move gave town residents their first effective police protection in almost three days. The 10-member local force went on strike Friday evening to back contract demands.

Until late Sunday, RCMP officers had provided only emergency police work in this southwestern Nova Scotia town. The attorney-general authorized the force to do routine policing after the town council met in emergency session to ask for RCMP help.

Jack Trask, deputy mayor and chairman of the town police commission, said another council meeting may be held early this week to discuss the strike situation.

There were no reports of vandalism Sunday night, in contrast to the previous two nights, when hooligans smashed plate glass windows in the town business district, slashed tires and held drag races on town streets. There was one report of looting Saturday night.

MAY SEND PICKETS

Constable Thomas Fraize, president of the Police Brotherhood of the Newfoundland Constabulary, which maintains order in St. John's, said he may send some members to help Yarmouth police man picket lines here.

Constable Fraize had earlier pledged the brotherhood's financial and moral support for the Yarmouth police. He called the use of RCMP for police duties "strike breaking".

The legal strike, the second in the province's history, began Friday after the town council rejected a tentative wage agreement worked out by a conciliation officer.

The contract would have given the police raises of $467 in the first year and $596 in the last of a two-year agreement. They now earn between $5,000 and $5,600 annually.

SYDNEY HIT IN 1971

A similar strike in Sydney last August brought vandals and drag racers to the streets of that city. The strike was not settled until the provincial government stepped in to offer funds for pay raises.

There was no indication the province was preparing to do the same here.

Joe Ross, executive-director of the Police Association of Nova Scotia, said early today that the RCMP "are strike breakers" but their appearance would not lessen the determination of the local policemen to get a new contract.

Mr. Ross said in an interview that the local men would remain on strike until the council agreed to the raises proposed in conciliation.

Cuban Overthrow Plot Revealed in Arms Raid

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A plot U.S. officials say was aimed at overthrowing the government of a foreign country apparently Cuba has been revealed in the arrest of nine persons in a $465,000 munitions smuggling scheme.

Allegedly stretching from New York to Louisiana, Texas and Mexico, the plot came to light with the arrests Saturday. In addition, nearly seven tons of plastic explosives were seized in a DC-4 transport plane at Shreveport, La., federal agents said.

U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinghouse said Sunday federal officials have no reasons to believe that the munitions were destined for any country other than Cuba.

The complaint charging two of the men, Murray Kessler of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Adler Seal of Baton Rouge, La., alleged they "knew and believed that this material would be used in an attempted overthrow of a foreign nation."

CHARGE CONSPIRACY

The nine were charged with conspiring to smuggle the explosives from the United States to Mexico for future shipment to a third country.

Among those arrested were Richmond Harper, a prominent South Texas rancher-banker, and Marion Hegler, a former inspector with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. They were taken into custody at Eagle Pass, Tex., where they reside, known as "Carlos Diaz" to each.

The federal complaint alleges dealings by a man then released on $25,000 bond purchase as much as $1.2 million in munitions and weapons, ranging from submachine guns to Mibs. No guns, however, were aboard the plane raided by federal agents at Shreveport, Saturday.

Gallinghouse said that Diaz, identified only as a man claiming to be a Mexican citizen, was being sought along with another man.

Constituency Study Starts

OTTAWA (CP) — The first step to re-drawing federal constituency boundaries has been taken with the appointment of 10 provincial electoral boundaries commissions.

The 10 commissions will undertake the first federal redistribution of constituency boundaries since 1965.

A Wider View

The comments of Mr. Allen Edwards, an internationally recognized and widely employed architectural design consultant, following on those of Mr. Spence-Sales in his recent report, give an indication of what more broadly experienced experts may be expected to think of the Reid highrise project on Wharf Street and the general trend of local construction today. Similar criticisms — slightly veiled in Mr. Spence-Sale's case, more outspoken by Mr. Edwards — were earlier voiced by Mr. Rod Clack, once a Victoria planner and now a recognized authority in Ottawa planning circles.

These are men whose experience and training lead them to assess buildings not merely on the basis of cost, tax production, or owner's revenue, but from the standpoint of function of the structures, their individual appearance, and their impact on the surrounding environment.

It would be a very wise move, before Victoria succumbs entirely to the highrise fad, to obtain the opinions of a number of such persons who could bring a knowledgeable, sophisticated viewpoint to our problem. It is not as though Victoria's City Council were cut off from the rest of the world.

Then why, in struggling with the largest and most important problem affecting the future of the city, do we lurch along mainly depending — apart from occasional "reports" — on the architects brought forward by the project promoters? These, quite naturally, are more interested in their individual contribution than in the basic long-range plans of the city — particularly when the city council is unable to provide them with the latter.

Certainly the city is passing up a wealth of imported informed opinion which it could profitably use in developing an overall program of growth and rehabilitation. The trouble is that each misplaced or inappropriately designed building not only keeps a better structure out, but encourages further examples of the same type. The result can be what may be seen all over this continent. Victorians often deplore what other cities have done to themselves — but item by item, stone by stone, permit it to be done here.

Fishing Forest — John McKay

Start on Nuisance Control

As British Columbia authorities conversant with the situation see it, Transport Minister Don Jamieson's announcement of new regulations to control pleasure boat operations—"to clamp down on the outboard cowboys" as a departmental spokesman phrases it—will have little application this summer. The mechanics of applying such regulations are such that no immediate muscle will be exerted on those who make a nuisance of themselves, or create hazards, on lakes or other waters, by the manner in which they handle their craft.

Several steps are needed before specific regulations can be drafted. A locality in which a substantial number of responsible people seek control over certain boating practices which they find offensive, may make representation to some local authority—a regional board, for instance. It, in turn, can convey recommendations to the provincial department of recreation, the designated department in British Columbia.

Having weighed the submission, determined its merit and established the fact that it represents a consensus from the region it covers, the department then forwards the recommendation to the Department of Transport for drafting of the required regulations. Once drafted, they are returned to the provincial authorities to administer.

Such an approach is needed, according to informed sources, to avoid imposition by a minority of what might be crank regulations on innocent boating activity.

The Jamieson announcement promises no relief during the current season to those suffering the abuse of motorboating on various waterways. It is, however, a step toward the control that must eventually be established. The gestation period has been lengthy and the labor pains are prolonged, but at least some legislation is about to emerge to make waterways and adjacent shores more attractive to the increasing numbers finding legitimate pleasure on them.

Strike Three

According to some of the more biased fans, there is a place in professional baseball for the halt, the lame and the blind — provided they wear the blue uniform of an umpire. But there appears to be no place in that career for a lady, no matter how hard she tries, how much she weeps at the injustice of things, what the courts have to say on the issue or how much she studies to be an umpire.

This seems to be the only conclusion to be drawn from the experience of Mrs. Bernice Gera, the housewife who finally was given a job in the New York-Penn League in Geneva, New York, reversed a decision, ejected a manager from the game and concluded that lack of co-operation from other officials made it impossible for her to function in the work for which she had prepared herself.

But if the heat was too great on the diamond, Mrs. Gera is not going to retire to the kitchen. She vows she'll "become very active in all movements aimed at the elimination of sexism and bias against women professionals in sport."

That's telling 'em, Bernice. Now move into the bleachers and tell all those other male, chauvinist umpires what you think of them. Everybody else does.

NDP Waffle Versus Unions

TORONTO — Contrary to what has appeared in the Toronto press, the Waffle has not been "expelled" from the Ontario NDP. Neither has it been dissolved, expunged, killed or otherwise pronounced dead and read over.

There were many who placed that construction on the resolution passed by the NDP Provincial Council at its recent meeting in Orillia, and many more who wished it so. But language can only be stretched so far and while the Orillia resolution was gloriously ambiguous, it was not so elastic as to constitute authority, ex cathedra, to excommunicate the Wafflers on the spot.

At most, the resolution was a warning. It said "the present structure and behavior" of the Waffle cannot continue, the emphasis being, according to those who submitted it, on the word "present." It then set out a number of guidelines which, by implication, Wafflers could follow in the future and still remain in the NDP.

No 'Public Identity'

The common idea in these guidelines was that the Waffle must stop being a party within a party. It must not assume a "public identity" or a distinctive name. It must not hold press conferences, convene public meetings, initiate or participate in demonstrations or make public statements about party matters on its own. Its role must become and remain "non-public."

In the context of the NDP's problem with the Waffle, these conditions were as moderate as they could be. Nothing was said about having its own mailing list, its own newsletter, hiring its own organizer or raising its own finances — all things the Waffle has done in the course of becoming a party within a party. Nothing was said about ideological differences which place the Waffle far to the left of the official NDP policy line.

In short, there is nothing to stop the Waffle from becoming, under some other name or no name at all, a left wing caucus within the NDP provided it lowers its public visibility — a role which the Orillia resolution rather pointedly invites it to undertake.

Even the activities which have now been interdicted by the Orillia decision are clearly to be judged tolerantly. Party leader Stephen Lewis refused to get upset, for example, when the Waffle convened a public meeting within a few hours of the Provincial Council's decision. He also saw nothing wrong with the Waffle subsequently announcing it will hold a province-wide conference by mid-August to consider its future in the light of the Orillia resolution. After all, Mr. Lewis said, the Wafflers were entitled to some time to sort matters out.

Such magnanimity, it needs hardly be said, is of course double-edged. There is no need for the Waffle to hold a big conference in order to decide to disband; the point of such an affair can only be to assess the possibilities of becoming a separate party — a prospect, one suspects, which does not depress Mr. Lewis unduly. Getting the Wafflers to secede is a lot less messy than having to purge the party of them.

STEPHEN LEWIS

Secession, however, seems too pat a solution for the Waffle problem. Mr. Lewis and the party hierarchy were not sure enough to dispose of their Waffle albatross at Orillia — a recommendation from the party executive that the Waffle be dissolved was so discredited that it was not even put before the Provincial Council — and it would be an unusual turn of fate if the bird can now be persuaded to fly away on its own.

The reason does not lie in the strength of the Waffle itself. At most, it can claim between 800 and 1,000 adherents out of an Ontario NDP membership of some 24,000. In Professors James Laxer and Melville Watkins and a few others, it has brilliant, ambitious leadership but what they lead is a pretty motley crew of young Maoists, Trotskyites and freakies who have very little in common with the mainstream of the New Democratic Party.

What they have, however, are a lot of NDP regulars — the so-called moderate centre — who are disposed to keep them in the Party as a buttress, or a counterweight, or a thorn in the side of the trade union right wing.

This sentiment was apparent enough in the 217 to 88 vote by which the Provincial Council passed the Orillia resolution. Of the 305 Council members present, 109 were delegates from affiliated unions and with the exception of a handful they voted for the resolution. The 150 delegates from the riding associations were much less enthusiastic: by this observer's scoreboard, only about 55 per cent of these delegates supported the resolution.

Over-Bearing Stance

The trade union wing has always presented an over-bearing and dictatorial stance to the rest of the New Democratic Party and the Orillia meeting was no exception, as one union leader after another took to the microphones to read far more into the resolution than its movers intended, hailing it as the instrument by which the Wafflers would be driven from the party.

Since it is no secret that Mr. Lewis' decision to bring the Waffle problem to a head was precipitated by a meeting with top union leaders following a Waffle attack on the United Autoworkers' leadership in Windsor in January, and since he became Ontario leader by leaving a trail of IOU's to labor behind him, the Orillia conference was regarded by many NDP centrists not as the "catharsis" which Mr. Lewis claimed it to be but as another of the power-play thrusts from the unions against which the NDP must be eternally on guard.

It is unlikely, therefore, that these concerns and resentments will simply disappear in the months ahead and Mr. Lewis will have to be most circumspect about how he uses the power to purge, which the Orillia resolution undoubtedly gives him, lest he drive the centrists along with the Waffle.

Mr. Lewis will remember, no doubt, that after the Orillia resolution was passed, a delegate grabbed a microphone and moved a vote of confidence in the party leader. On such occasions a standing ovation by all is de rigueur, but this time a very noticeable number, perhaps 25 or 30, sat stolidly in their seats. Very few of them were Wafflers. Mr. Lewis will not soon forget it.

Gold for a Non-Emergency

OTTAWA — There has been very little comment on Donald Macdonald's announcement that the government is extending the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act for another three years. This is puzzling in the circumstances.

An emergency, according to the Concise Oxford, is a "sudden juncture demanding immediate action." Thus an emergency door, as the learned authors note, is one for use in emergencies only, e.g. in the case of fire. An emergency man, to cite a less well-known illustration, is a bailiff's officer recruited in Ireland for special service, especially evictions.

The sudden juncture that has recently engaged Mr. Macdonald's mind was originally discerned 24 years ago and is to last until June 30, 1976. This may well be a record in Canada for official emergencies.

There is another aspect of the matter which the layman, not involved in the gold business, may have difficulty in grasping. The request for another extension comes from the Mining Association of Canada, which does not identify the emergency requiring immediate government action. In fact it says, and the Minister agrees, that there is no emergency.

Temporary Boom

Thus the Association quoted in his Timmins speech by Mr. Macdonald: "While it is reasonable to assume that gold will play an increasingly important role in the monetary and industrial fields, one cannot presume that existing international conditions will always remain as buoyant as they presently are."

Conditions then are buoyant. No one at the moment is fleeing from a fire; no bailiff's officer is on the doorstep threatening evictions.

Mr. Macdonald adds: "I would think that everyone who lives in the gold mining communities is well aware of the recent dramatic increase in the free market price of gold. Whereas the official price is set at U.S. $38 per ounce, the free market has risen to well over $60 an ounce."

In other words the Government has not been induced by an emergency to extend the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act.

It would appear reasonable, if an Act is required, to alter its title. In fact it is government-provided Insurance. "I would agree with the Mining Association of Canada," says the minister, "that a 'floor price' will enable the gold mining companies to 'face the future with a great degree of confidence'."

An odd point may be noted in passing. The New Democratic party does not advocate the nationalization of gold mines, but it does urge the nationalization of resource industries. Furthermore, its spokesmen are all for emancipating the monetary system from any reliance on gold. There has not, however, been so much as a peep of protest about this latest concession to the gold mining industry.

DONALD MACDONALD

The basic difficulty is that the Government has been confronted for years with a declining industry on which various communities are based. There was a case in 1948 for requiring taxpayers to support a subsidy program, either to provide time for resolving the problem in one fashion or another, or in the hope that gold might recover its former economic importance. In fact there has never been much hope, the present situation being considered abnormal; the measures taken have been simply window dressing; and the public has been required to finance a slow decline which is now to continue to the 27th year.

As for the absence of protest, the only plausible explanation seems to be the fact that the political parties compete closely for the support of various gold-mining constituencies.

Familiar Argument

Mr. Macdonald readily accepts the principle of a floor price for gold. His arguments by now have a ring of familiarity. "The Government realizes that, just as the price of gold has increased sharply, so it could decline." Stability of the mines, the communities and jobs is not helped by large fluctuations. Rapid changes make it impossible to plan mining activities and the necessary capital investment for development and machinery in years ahead. And so on.

But price fluctuations also occur in other metals which do not benefit from a floor. In fact, business and industry generally face the problem of uncertain prices. If the Government is to guarantee gold, for three years at a time, why should it not provide the same guarantee for other industries, some of which it subsidizes into being? Gold is not the only industry which provides jobs and supports communities.

Mr. Macdonald appealed at Timmins for the close co-operation of the industry. The response should be enthusiastic. It is not every businessman who can be guaranteed an "emergency" and the subsidies that go with it for 27 years — so long in fact that taxpayers come to accept it as something inevitable, normal, part of life, beyond protest, beyond comment. Nobody understands gold, but at least we have come to understand who pays for it most of the time: the taxpayers of Canada by the generous arrangements of government.

Letters to the Editor

Other Pressures

Writing as a member of the group which formed in the city last January to disseminate information on orthomolecular medicine, and having assisted (or hindered) at eight public meetings held since then, I would like to appeal to those persons who attended once or twice, and were disappointed by the ramblings of several of our guest speakers, to please keep in touch with the campaign.

We, too, have been disappointed, to put it mildly.

We would, of course, have very much liked to have been addressed by a physician who was fully cognizant of the "megavitamin" therapies which have proved so successful in helping those suffering from psychosis, alcoholism, autism, depression or hyperactivity, to name only a few of the disabilities relieved by this method of treatment. However, it has not yet been possible, with one exception, to find a doctor here who could or would so express him or herself in Victoria.

We are aware that the more concerned lay people there are who question their family doctors on orthomolecular psychiatry the sooner the needed improvements in health will come, but other pressures, too, have to be applied.

We welcome constructive comments and new members, donations, etc., and remain thankful if we can be of help to anyone. — S. C. W. Stokes, Box 8, R.R. 1, Cobble Hill.

Beaches

In answer to Mr. Beardsmore's letter of June 23, I would like to quote from the Capital Regional District Planning Department's Gulf Islands Study.

On Saltspring Island, "only ⅛ of a mile of this Island's 77 miles of shore consists of publicly owned waterfront with sandy beach bordering land with a slope of 20 per cent or less. By contrast 3¼ miles of waterfront with the same class of beach and backland are subdivided and in private ownership. Public sandy beach bordering land in excess of 20 per cent slope accounts for ⅛ of a mile, compared with five miles for subdivided land with the same class of beach and backland, altogether 2⅞ miles of shore are in public ownership."

I can appreciate Mr. Beardsmore's difficulty in locating a public beach. I would suggest that further subdivision would only alienate more waterfront.

If the Gulf Islands were to be subdivided to the extent desired by Mr. Beardsmore, could he visit them? The beaches would be as crowded as Willows and the Island would have the charm of any suburb of Victoria.

To preserve the Island's present characteristics and bring more land under public ownership, which is what visitors seek, long range planning is needed. Planning which would benefit the entire population, not just developers. — N. W. Jackson, 1923 Davie St.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of July 3, 1912:

HENLEY-ON-THAMES — The annual regatta, which next Saturday is to be honored by the presence of King George and Queen Mary, who are coming in the old state barge, manned by the King's watermen in their historic costumes of the Middle Ages, opened today under the most depressing conditions. The attendance, too, was the smallest recorded for years. Later in the day, however, the weather became brighter, and if the sun continues to shine, the regatta held under royal auspices is expected to be socially brilliant.

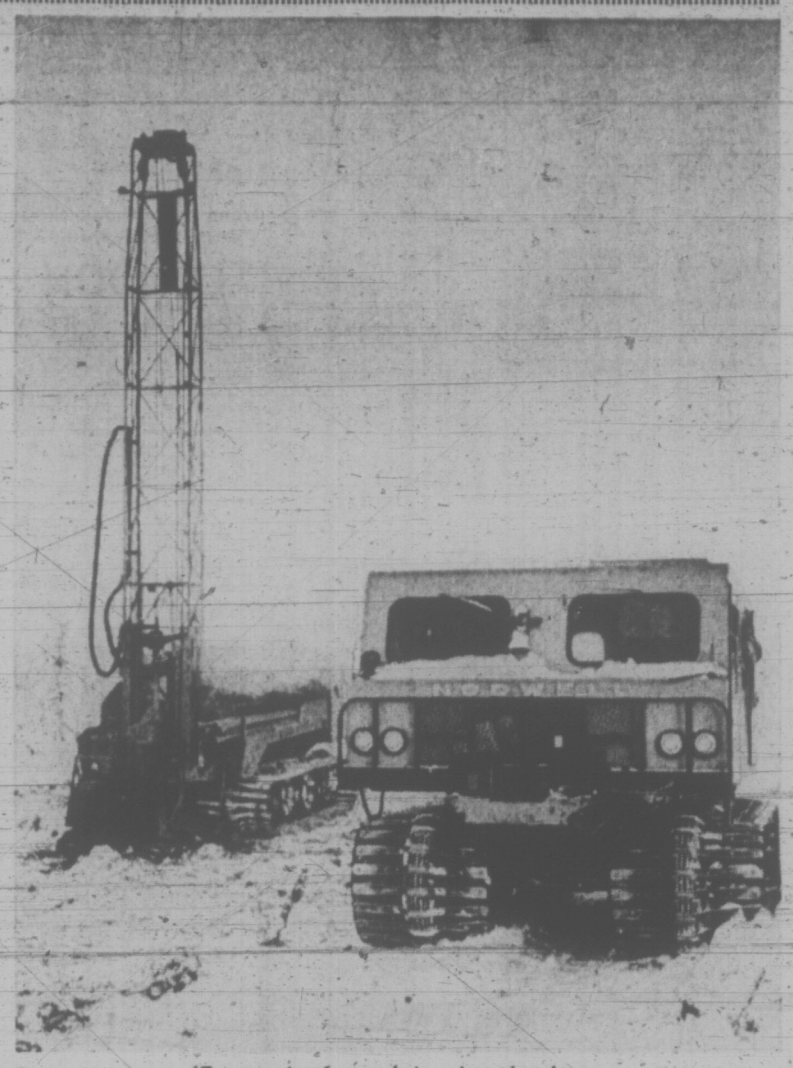
Oil Shapes Arctic

By PETER DESBARATS

(Ottawa editor of the Toronto Star, Desbarats recently made a 10-day, 10,000-mile tour of the Yukon and Northwest Territories.)



'Fantastic future' is already here.

ROMULUS C-42, Ellesmere Island, N.W.T. — The first oil discovery in the Canadian Arctic islands was made here. The date was Feb. 24, 1972, and the exact place was 3,425 feet below the surface of this bleak valley about 800 miles from the pole.

It is already ancient history — although the same oil rig is still operating over the same spot, its bit now churning through the sediment of ancient oceans more than 10,000 feet underground.

An even older story can be seen 250 miles to the west, on King Christian Island. Journalists were flown there last month to watch Jean Chretien, Indian affairs and northern development minister, open a valve and ignite a roaring demonstration flare that consumed, in 10 minutes, enough gas to heat your home for 10 years.

This story goes back to Oct. 25, 1970, when King Christian N-06 blew wild, caught fire and burned out of control for three months, a beacon that could be seen for 150 miles in the Arctic night.

Dream World

Several thousand miles north of Toronto and Vancouver, almost equidistant from both, this is the operating time perspective.

In the south, development of Arctic oil and gas, despite everything that has been said and written about it, still seems to be a visionary prospect.

In the Arctic, it shapes the present.

At a conference on the Arctic in Ottawa several weeks ago, I listened to a graduate student berate older scientists for passively accepting the idea of northern oil and gas pipelines. The question is not how the pipelines can be constructed safely, she said, but whether the pipelines should be built at all.

Canadians who still believe that this is the issue are living in a dream world — or the past. They are somewhere in the early '60s when "northern development" was a toy painted in primary colors and tossed about by politicians at election time.

That this dream persists in the '70s is partly the responsibility of the media. They have continued to describe the north in fantastic terms — a land of unbelievable resources and incredible wealth and prospects that are always fabulous; and this has helped to obscure the fact that Canadian exploitation of the Arctic is now an accomplished fact.

A great deal of the fantastic future is already history.

The key decision was made in the late '60s when the Canadian government decided not only to encourage the search for oil and gas in the high Arctic but to participate in it as a 45 per cent shareholder in one of the most active companies, Panarctic Oils Ltd. of Calgary.

Since then, more than $400 million has been spent on oil and gas exploration and drilling in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Enough oil and gas has been found to justify preparatory work on pipelines.

No — "justify" is too weak a term. The discoveries have made it imperative for the federal government to solicit bids this year for a Mackenzie Valley gas pipeline, and to commit a half million dollars for an initial survey this summer of gas pipeline routes along both coasts of Hudson Bay.

Spending Millions

The inevitability of this development is what one begins to appreciate after only a few days in the Arctic.

From this vantage point, Canadians in the south are the ones who appear to be living in a world of visions where all options are open and all things are possible.

The real world is up here, at the "isolated" drilling sites where the roughnecks commute every 20 days to their homes in Alberta. It is obvious here that millions are being spent, that oil and gas are being found, and that it is going to move south by one means or another.

It is obvious that the oil and gas industry in the Arctic is here to stay. In fact, its future seems more assured than the future of the native people who also seem to realize, some hopefully, some passively, a few angrily, that the north is already dancing to the rhythm of the American drum.

Exploitation

The air of unreality that persists in the south has also been encouraged by many public figures on both sides of the issue.

Even last month, in informal conversations with a small group of journalists accompanying him on a tour of the Arctic islands, Northern Development Minister Chretien sought to preserve the illusion of the manoeuvrability. He argued that it is only sensible for Canada to explore the extent of its northern oil and gas reserves at this stage, and that when the reserves are determined more exactly, the government will be in a position to decide on their exploitation.

But it became more and more evident, as we toured the sites, that the decision to explore implied a decision to exploit.

Something more than the spirit of scientific inquiry has produced the millions of dollars that are being sunk into these wells.

When marketable reserves are discovered, this money is going to be called back. If Panarctic can earn gross revenues of $250 million a year as predicted, splitting the profits with the government, no administration in Ottawa is likely to seal the wells and sit back to ponder their development.

In fact the government of Canada already has committed this country to this development, and every policy decision deepens that commitment.

Only a few weeks ago, in Edmonton, I heard Prime Minister Trudeau commit the government to spending $9,100,000 this year on the continent's first road to the Arctic coast — the Mackenzie Highway. Last week, I choked on the dust of that new highway as the bulldozers began to push it south from Inuvik.

It is clear that the big decision already has been made.

Can't Stop It

Lawsuits, injunctions and other tactics employed by Canadians in the south and north who fundamentally disagree with this decision might be able to alter the pace of this development but it is too late to dream of stopping it.

The important decisions that have yet to be made about the people and environment of the Arctic will be made in the context of the development that is now underway.

Canadians who still think that these bleak islands are the world of the future are cultivating a dangerous illusion.

The American Who Thought He Was Doing Right in Vietnam

By WILLIAM SHAWCROSS
New Statesman

SAIGON — No one was surprised that John Paul Vann was killed in a helicopter crash near Kontum. He had been acting rather foolishly lately.

But a lot of Americans were dismayed, for Vann, the adviser to the whole central area of South Vietnam, was widely regarded as the third most important U.S. official here, after Ambassador Bunker and General Abrams.

He was a very strange American. An outspoken, courageous, honest, opinionated, arrogant and egotistical man, Vann aroused intense and contradictory passions in Vietnam. Many found him boorish, insensitive and quite antipathetic. But most of those Americans who worked with him adored him.

Even American journalists were overawed by him. When he strode, 30 minutes late, into his mess hall in Pleiku to talk to 20 reporters at the end of April, all the American journalists leapt to attention.

Attention of some sort was certainly due him. For in John Paul Vann's complex personality were embodied many of the frustrations, contradictions, inconsistencies and aspirations of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Vann began life in Vietnam as a military adviser in 1962. He resigned from the army as a lieutenant-colonel in 1963 because he did not approve of the build-up of American aid to the Diem regime. He felt the government was hated by most Vietnamese and later said that at that time he would have been a Viet Cong if Vietnamese himself.

He also disapproved of the methods of U.S. aid: "We gave these people combat boots and then they wouldn't go into the paddies, we gave them tanks, so they wouldn't go out into the boondocks . . . and ultimately we gave them American lives without requiring them to mobilize their own goddam country," he lately complained.

But as soon as he thought that that "mobilization" was beginning in the mid-Sixties he began to change his mind. He has never fully explained his metamorphosis into hawk, but it was total. It seems that as American involvement grew and as more Americans died, so, perhaps more important, he thought the Americans could now succeed — that alone was the justification for perseverance.

Since 1965 he worked as a civilian adviser until last year in the Mekong Delta, which he claimed to have 'pacified' completely before he left to take over the Central Highlands. While in the Delta he took to riding around at night on a motorbike in black pajamas just to demonstrate the "security" of the areas. His successors there have recently scorned his claims, pointing out the huge resurgence of Viet Cong activity in recent weeks.

The roles of the American military and civilian advisers are integral to Vietnamization. Many of the military advisers are straightforward develop an affection for their own image of Vietnam, but they are seldom able to explain just what they think they are doing here. John Paul Vann was not like that and he was proud of the fact.

He came to have absolutely no doubts about his role in Vietnam, and he had no fear of expressing himself strongly. He infuriated the military command by his public criticism of their ineptitude and he used to leak to the press a catalogue of the blunders of the men he disliked. This, perhaps, was one reason why the American journalists leapt so quickly to attention.

Small, sun-burnished, with a springy step and thin, light red hair, Vann was a soldier's man who enjoyed living in sparse army quarters. Parted from his family, he was as fond of Vietnamese girls as are many Americans in their way, and at his drab memorial service in the theatre of the U.S. army headquarters in Saigon several girls wept uncontrollably.

In the last two months Vann enthusiastically usurped the effective command of the battle for Kontum from the Vietnamese, making it a personal crusade.

"I expect to defeat — I expect the Vietnamese to defeat the North Vietnamese forces," he told a reporter last month. Every day he had his helicopter crew fly him, even through typhoon conditions and heavy Communist fire, to the battle area. He explained that this was largely in order "to draw enemy fire" and so pinpoint the places the B-52s should strike. As a result the bombing around Kontum has been far more intensive and perhaps more accurate than anywhere else.

"Any time the wind is blowing from the north, the B-52 strikes are turning the terrain into a moon landscape," he said characteristically the other day. "You can tell from the stench that the strikes have been effective. The bodies are everywhere." This, he claimed, gave him more pleasure than anything else in life. No one doubted him.

Recently, his predictions and assertions and policies became as wild as his behavior. Last month he claimed that the Communists had crucified two French priests in a village north of Kontum. When pressed for evidence he could provide none, and none has ever been found.

In May he also personally approved an ARVN scheme to evacuate as many Vietnamese from Kontum as possible but to leave the Montagnards (whom the Vietnamese hate) with their entire families in the threatened town. The Montagnards are far better fighters than the Vietnamese and this was considered an excellent way of both defending the town and dealing with part of the Montagnard refugee problem.

But when the scheme came to the attention of other American civilians here, including CIA officials, they were horrified and threatened to ruin Vann unless he abandoned it. Reluctantly he did so; some of the Montagnards have now been flown out of Kontum.

Vann was once a close friend of Daniel Ellsberg. In a sense the two men represent the two horns of the American dilemma in Vietnam. Ellsberg began his relations with Vietnam as a hawk while Vann was, till the mid '60s, a skeptic if not a dove. For a time they shared a concerned confusion, but then found the opposite solution to the crisis.

Last year, Vann said, his son wrote to him and said: "Between you and Ellsberg, I'd choose Ellsberg. Thank God I don't have to take your money any more. It's earned with blood."

"But," said Vann, "my whole goddam involvement here has been to try to bring some reason and justice to our effort."

Ellsberg might say the same of his own activities. It is after all, how most Americans explain their particular roles in Vietnam.

Once Friend of Ellsberg, John Vann Became a Hawk and reliable professional soldiers whose motives are no more complicated than an anxiety to win whatever particular battle they are engaged in.

Their main use to the ARVN is that they can call up American air strikes; unfortunately, however, the American policy to save American lives decrees that they should often be evacuated by helicopter from a dangerous situation. Many of them, professional as they are, hate to leave the Vietnamese at the time they most need air support — but they have to obey orders.

No one gave more orders to evacuate American advisers than did John Paul Vann when the communists swept through the Central Highlands in April.

"Well," he said, "Americans put more value on life than do the Vietnamese."

Britain's Unique Court

Bold 'Do-It-Yourself' Judge Runs Labor Dispute Tribunal

By ALVIN SHUSTER
New York Times

LONDON — The most talked about man in Britain these days is a 51-year-old judge, Sir John Donaldson, a do-it-yourselfer enthusiast who is being accused of doing too much himself.

Sir John is president of the new National Industrial Relations Court, created to bring order to labor disputes here. Some people call his job an impossible one, since unions have tried to operate as if he did not exist. But Sir John thinks it is a duty that can and should be done.

In recent days, Sir John has suffered two severe setbacks. A higher court, the Court of Appeal, reversed two of his major decisions, raising the question of whether his court had any future.

In the first case, the Appeal Court overturned a fine of $130,000 against the country's biggest union, the Transport and General Workers, and held that it was not responsible for the unofficial actions of intransigent shop stewards.

In the second, the Appeal court's three judges set aside the Industrial Relations Court's decision to send three dock workers to jail for contempt for failing to appear. The higher court said the contempt procedures were too loose and cavalier.

"Sir John is a first-class lawyer with a high intellect," said one lawyer who has often appeared before him. "He is often polite but he is often arrogant as well. When you put arrogance together with great intelligence, you usually get trouble. You never know what he is going to do next."

A tall, lean man whose suntan reveals his enthusiasm for sailing, Sir John runs his court like no other in the land. Although it has the status of a high court, informality is rampant.

He asks that he be addressed as "Sir" rather than the traditional "My Lord." He and the lawyers wear business suits rather than the usual court regalia of wigs and gowns.

"The rules of evidence just don't apply in his court," said a lawyer. "He takes judicial notice of anything he likes. Newspaper cuttings are suddenly thrust into evidence. Almost everything goes. Sometimes it's like free-for-all wrestling. But Sir John sincerely believes in the new law, and that's good."

Court traditionalists sometimes shudder when they sit in on the proceedings in an office building in London's Chancery Lane, just off Fleet Street and near the law courts. They still talk of Sir John's suggestion that evidence might be taken over the telephone and broadcast into the courtroom if speed seemed essential.

Despite all the turmoil surrounding the court, Sir John clearly enjoys the challenge of the job if not the reversals. He sees the role of the court as no different from any other — "To uphold the rule of law and apply the law of the land" — no matter who might be infuriated by its decisions.

His ruling to jail the dock workers, for example, not only angered all the country's dockmen, but also worried the government, which feared that the harsh measure might lead to an unofficial national strike.

Sir John, who was Britain's youngest High Court judge when he was appointed six years ago, was assigned to the Industrial Relations Court by the Lord Chancellor after the Conservative government's labor legislation went into effect last winter.

He had gained experience in industrial disputes on the bench of the High Court's commercial court, where he gained some fame in the so-called "froth on Guinness" case. In that decision he persuaded local magistrates in Bristol that the froth on the head of a glass of Guinness should count as part of the measured pint. That was a relatively easy decision compared with what he must deal with today.

Born in London, 1920, John Francis Donaldson was educated at Charterhouse, one of Britain's best private schools, and Trinity College, Cambridge. At Cambridge, at the start of the Second World War, he was president of the Federation of University Conservative Association two years after Prime Minister Heath had held the post. During the war he served as an officer in Britain and Europe and turned to law afterwards. In a brief dabble in politics, he served on the borough council of Croydon, in South London. In 1966, he was named to the High Court, a post that earns him about $36,000 a year.

When he opened the Industrial Relations Court last November, he said that its success "depends upon the extent to which" we provide what our customers — the parties and the public — really need." Much to his dismay, he is finding it difficult to please those customers.

FORD'S COURIER Ford

Ford's little import
COURIER

With an economy import price

At Ford, we like to give you what you like to have. So now we've brought in our own little import truck to meet your needs.

Courier comes complete with a fully synchronized four-on-the-floor transmission, bright front bumper and grille, hub caps, whitewall tires and a peppy 1800 cc overhead cam engine.

Courier also has all the components for people and payloads up to 1400 pounds. That means there's plenty of room in back for a cycle or two . . . or camping, fishing, or hunting equipment. It's also rather a comfortable thought that you can head out to rough it for a weekend—without roughing it on the ride. With an independent front suspension and a long 104.3" wheelbase, Courier is designed to take the bite out of the bumps. Courier's just right for the outdoor life.

And while Courier can pack in what you need to head out for the fun, it is also built to be pretty practical. Everything from the powertrain to the cab and body are designed with low maintenance costs in mind. Courier is also easy on gas, easy to maneuver, and easy to buy with it's low import price. All in all, we think our new Courier offers you the most economical way to play pickup.

And it's nice to know that now, if you're in the mood for a little import truck, you don't have to look any further than your local Ford or Mercury Dealer.

Quiet Period Seen for Bonds

TORONTO (CP) — Analysts predict the quiet pace of the bond market since the beginning of the year will continue for the next few months.

There has been upward pressure on money rates since the beginning of the year. In late May, Burns Bros. and Denton Ltd. cited easy access to bank loans for corporations and the light volume of new issues as two reasons for the trend to higher rates and a market slump.

According to Douglas Coape-Arnold in a duPont Glore Forgan research report, the money supply situation is "fairly strong, bolstered by the inflow of foreign funds, rising corporate profits, greater money velocity and higher personal savings."

The largest bond issue in Canadian corporate bond history was issue in early June by TransCanada PipeLines Ltd. a $140-million issue with a 20-year delivery.

As mortgage rates moved higher, the resulting shift of capital from long-term bonds to mortgages pushed long-term rates higher.

BCTF Vows to Continue Fight Despite Ruling by Top Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Teachers' Federation leaders vowed Sunday to continue the fight against the Social Credit government and its educational policies after a setback in B.C. Supreme court.

But Jim MacFarlan, first vice-president of the BCTF, said the fight would not break the law.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre granted an interim injunction Friday pending a trial on the question of the "war chest" of the teachers to oppose legislation which puts a ceiling on the limit the government will contribute to teacher salary increases.

The injunction temporarily stops the federation from continuing to collect money from teachers and spending money already collected.

The federation earlier this year approved a levy of one day's salary on each of its 23,000 members for a political action fund.

Details of the injunction will not be made available until Tuesday. An all-day executive meeting has been scheduled by the federation for Thursday.

After the decision BCTF president Adam Robertson issued a statement of regret over the findings and said his organization was considering an appeal.

"We find the decision very unfortunate because two dissident members have thwarted the actions of 20,000 members who volunteered their wages," said MacFarlan.

He said by the end of the school term last week between 92 and 94 per cent of the membership had paid a day's wages into the fund.

"The decision prevents the overwhelming majority of teachers from exercising their democratic right, to become involved in the political life of the province," MacFarlan said.

"We are convinced the majority of teachers, as individual citizens, are going to exercise their rights in one form or another. If the organization is prohibited from acting, then 20,000 teachers will act on their own consciences."

The injunction does not rule on the legality of the BCTF fund or its method of collection, but merely halts the fund until a court can decide on the question.

Chichester Puts Ashore Goes Into Hospital

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — British yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester, forced to withdraw from a solo trans-Atlantic race because of bad luck and ill health, entered a Royal Navy hospital today for a physical checkup.

His son Giles, 25, and three Royal Navy yachtsmen helped him on the final leg of the return.

"My father took a battering in rough weather in the first two or three days of the race," young Chichester said. "Then he took a pain-killing injection which had some interesting side effects."

SIR FRANCIS

Sir Francis said that the injection gave him hallucinations and left him weak and exhausted.

"It put me out altogether," he said. This, combined with a bad radio, proved too much for the mariner, who had been warned against making the trip because of poor health. When spotted by a search plane, he signalled he was sick and cold."

A French weather ship, France II, first offered him assistance but knocked off the top of his yacht's mizzenmast in the process. Later a British frigate, the HMS Salisbury, hove into view with an emergency yacht team and Chichester's son was flown aboard by helicopter.

Chichester, suffering for months from a blood ailment, entered the trans-Atlantic race — "not to win," according to his son, "but just to finish — to sail the Atlantic just one more time."

Vancouver Shootings Claim 2

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are searching for gunmen who shot and killed two men in separate incidents early Saturday morning.

Brian Martin, 24, of Vancouver, died in hospital Sunday after being shot in the side while trying to settle a dispute over a cover charge at a Vancouver night club.

Within half an hour, Donato Ruscitto, 25, was shot through the heart as he left a beer parlor with his girlfriend.

Police were told Martin was shot in the side with a high-power rifle when he tried to talk the gunman into giving up his weapon.

Instead, the man shot Martin, then ran out into the street and fired at least six shots at neighboring buildings and parked cars before fleeing on foot.

Witnesses said Martin was not involved in the dispute and was just trying to calm the gunman down.

In the second incident, police said the small-calibre bullet that killed Ruscitto was fired from a small, black truck parked nearby with its motor running.

Court Hearing Begins Over Calif. Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for Sen. George S. McGovern's California delegates charged in federal court today that the Democratic convention credentials committee illegally changed the rules in stripping 151 McGovern supporters of their seats.

At a hearing before U.S. District Judge George Hart, attorney Joseph Rauh said that before the California primary all candidates were willing to abide by the state's winner-take-all provision.

"Now suddenly what was clear is to be changed," Rauh argued. "All of a sudden, after it was over, a challenge was filed."

The committee created an explosive controversy last week by voting to apportion the 271-member California delegation on the number of votes the Candidates received and on that basis ruled in favor of 151 non-McGovern challengers.

Rauh, on behalf of McGovern's California supporters, filed suit asking that the action be reversed.

However, Hart commented during the court hearing: "It may not be cricket to change the rules, it may even be dirty pool, but is it unconstitutional?"

He also asked: "How far are the courts going to get into violations of party rules?"

ITT Plan Reported To Crush Allende

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The International Telephone and Telegraph Co. urged the Nixon administration to follow an 18-point plan the vast conglomerate suggested to force the collapse of Chilean President Salvador Allende's leftist government, the New York Times says.

The ITT plan included economic warfare and Chilean military sabotage, assisted by a special White House division, the Central Intelligence Agency and various foreign governments, The Times says.

The outline was contained in a letter and memorandum dated Oct. 1, 1971 obtained by The Times. The letter was written by William R. Merriam, vice-president in charge of ITT's Washington relations, and addressed to Peter G. Peterson, then international economic affairs assistant to President Nixon.

The ITT plan suggested an "economic squeeze" on Chile through denial of international loans, ban on imports of Chilean products such as copper and prohibition of exports to the country, to force "economic chaos," The Times quotes the letter as saying.

The suggestions were sent two days after Chile had expropriated the Chilean Telephone Co. (Chiltelco), in which ITT had owned a 70-per-cent interest.

Peterson said in an interview with The Times that he did not remember having read the memorandum.

Documents published earlier this year by columnist Jack Anderson revealed contact between ITT and the CIA on how to prevent Allende from being inaugurated.

The White House did not act on the measures, although months later it did invoke its own sanctions against the country, the paper says.

Report Denied

TORONTO — News reports that a Northwest Territories councillor was removed from an aircraft en route to Resolution Island by order of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation have been labelled by the company as "erroneous."

Councillor Bryan Pearson, in a Canadian Press story charged that he was ordered from a "civilian aircraft" by ITT and that a Distant Early Warning site is located on Resolution Island.

In a statement issued from Toronto, ITT said the company was not involved in activities of any kind on Resolution Island and had no knowledge of Pearson's movements. The company also said there is no Dewline site on Resolution.

The Dewline is operated by ITT under contract to the United States Air Force which functions in conjunction with the department of national defence for the Canadian sectors of the line. The Dewline comprises 31 stations along the Arctic Circle, running from Alaska in the west to Greenland.

The "MAN and RESOURCES" Conference

HOW DOES IT AFFECT YOU?

Well, come and see, and participate.

WHO? You, the public of Victoria to Mill Bay and Jordan River to the Gulf Islands.

WHAT? Man and Resources Public Meetings.

WHEN? Wednesday evenings, July 5, 12 and 19, at 7:30 p.m. Everyone welcome to one or to all the meetings!

AN EXPLANATION

The Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers wants to learn the public's wishes about our natural resources and our environment.

This is a grass-roots invitation to all of us to express our desires and wishes about caring for, developing and maintaining the quality and quantity of the Canadian heritage, for our use and for the generations to follow. Your chairmen for the meetings are: Ray Ferris, July 5; John Hicks, July 12; and Hal Knight, July 19.

For your interest, here is a sample list of the many organizations responsible for the Southern Vancouver Island meetings:

B.C. Bar Association, Canadian Petroleum Association, Project Recycle, Salvation Army, SPEC, Council of Churches, Canadian Institute of Forestry, Victoria Medical Society, Voice of Women, Sierra Club, SPHERE, Greater Victoria School Board, Real Estate Board, P.C.B.

So come along. Think over, say, five environmental or natural resource issues which affect your desired way of life. Present these issues and problems at the meetings. In this way, you will participate and contribute and find out the answers to WHY the "MAN and RESOURCES" Conference AFFECTS YOU.

Chris Wins as Evonne Waits

sports

DOUG PEDEN - EDITOR

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Teen-ager Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif. 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 today and moved into a women's singles semi-final match with defending champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia.

The top-seeded 20-year-old Australian girl qualified for the semi-finals Wednesday with an 8-6, 7-5 victory over Francoise Durr of France and set up what is expected to be a classic match against Miss Evert, the 17-year-old sensation of the tournament.

Little Rosemary Casals of San Francisco also advanced to the semi-finals Wednesday, upsetting Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

She will play the winner of the match between second-seeded Billie Jean King, a three-time Wimbledon winner from Long Beach, Calif., and Virginia Wade of Britain.

For a time it looked as if the first match ever between Miss Evert, making her Wimbledon debut, and Miss Goolagong would not come about.

Miss Evert had no trouble in winning the first set, but then Miss Hogan, the only unseeded player to reach the quarter-finals, came back to take the second. Miss Evert was shaky at the start of the third set but got her game together to win.

Miss Goolagong has let it be known that she is eager to meet Miss Evert in the semi-finals.

They never have met. Each is dedicated to winning. Neither gives an inch.

"I am really looking forward to playing Chris," Miss Goolagong said. "It will be important for both of us to find out who's the best.

"She'll be tough, all right. But she's someone new to me, and that means I'll be able to try out my experiment. No, I won't say what it is."

Miss Goolagong's game has been erratic in her progress to today's quarter-finals. She dropped the first set and was in danger of losing to Russia's Olga Morozova in the fourth round.

Miss Evert, the 17-year-old bombshell from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., stuck to her practice of declining to speculate on what might happen when she plays Miss Goolagong.

To every such query she replies: "I'm playing just one match at a time."

Tuesday's men's quarter-final lineup matches Smith against Russia's Alexander Metreveli, Connors against second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania, Onny Parun of New Zealand against Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, and Spain's Manuel Orantes against Jolin Dibley of Australia.

Stars' Coach Impressed, Hurt by Trini's Efforts

Trini Douglas just may have scored his way on to the same field as Pele, the incomparable king of soccer.

Alan O'Neil, coach of the Premier Soccer League all-stars, is to decide on the players who will bolster the lineup for Friday night's encounter with Santos of Brazil, featuring the legendary Pele, in Vancouver.

The 20-year-old Trinidad native rammed in three goals to power Victoria Regals to a 3-2 upset over O'Neil's impressive league-leading club in PSL action before 716 happy fans at Royal Athletic Park.

"He (O'Neil) may add Trini to his lineup," speculated Regals' coach Brian Hughes. "He was quite impressed by him Saturday night."

Two of Douglas' goals came in the second half as the Regals overcame a 2-1 deficit at half time. The speedy winger popped in the winner with about two minutes left in the game.

In another game Sunday in Burnaby, Bruce Twamley's second half goal earned Vancouver Spartans a 1-1 tie with Croatia. Zvonko Posinvak scored for Croatia.

"It was his (Douglas) best game since coming here," commented Hughes on his flashy youngster, who prior to Saturday's game had failed to cash in on frequent scoring chances. Hughes talked Douglas into joining the Regals after coaching him last year in Jamaica, where Douglas was a scoring sensation.

"He's been threatening in every game but has just been hitting the goalies, the posts and everything except the net."

Otherwise, Hughes lashed out at what he termed "disgusting refereeing" which he said led to a chippy game. Several players had their names taken for rough play.

Goals by Sergio Zanatta, on a free kick, and Vic Kodjela gave Columbus a halftime lead that may have been larger if Graham Lee hadn't been alert in the Victoria goal.

Douglas sidefooted a penalty shot into the net 10 minutes into the second half then completed a neat passing play from Ike MacKay and Ash Valdal on the winner.

"We got good individual performances," said Hughes. "As a team it wasn't one of our better efforts. But we got the points, and that's what is important."

Eric Andrews Leading Top Rifle-Meet Event

Eric Andrews of Victoria led the qualifying round of the Lieutenant-Governor's match at the weekend during the 88th annual B.C. Association rifle prize meeting at Heal's Range.

Andrews, who fired 104 out of a possible 105 with 15-V's in 21 shots, won the Douglas Trophy for leading the first stage of competiton.

He edged former Victorian Sandy Peden of Coquitlam, who shot 104 with 14-V's.

The four-day event, in its third day today, has attracted 113 shooters from B.C., the United States and Alberta.

Steve Johnson of Calgary was a double winner taking the Vancouver and Norman Beaton matches. Both times he had possible 50 scores.

Bob Walker of Victoria, Peter Papasideris of Calgary and Bert Edwards of West Vancouver all had possible 50s to share the Victoria match lead. A shootoff was needed today to decide the winner of the city medallion.

Papasideris captured the Barclay match with a possible 50 score and Lowell Delp of the U.S. Marine Corps led the Westminster match with another possible 50 result.

Fritz Salevsky of Nanaimo scored 99 out of 100 to place first in the McDonalds tobacco match.

Nineteen-Foot Vault Is Near Says New Holder of Record

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Bob Seagren, the 1968 Olympic gold medalist, cracked the world pole vault record Sunday, but he doesn't think the new mark of 18 feet 5¾ inches will last long.

"Nineteen feet is near," the 25-year-old Seagren said Sunday after the vault that gave him the No. 1 spot on the United States track and field team for the Olympic Games in Munich.

Seagren turned on a crowd of 14,000 at Hayward Field as he conquered both 95-degree heat and nervousness to snap the world mark of 18-4 he shared with Sweden's Kjell Isaksson.

Seagren, representing the Southern California Striders, might have taken a crack at the 19-foot mark except there were 21 vaulters in contention at the start of the fourth day of the U.S. Olympic Trials.

"I think I could have had a good chance at it today if the competition hadn't lasted so long and it had been earlier in the day," he said.

He said the record vault, which came on his third attempt, wasn't one of his best, but it was good enough for him to finish ahead of Steve Smith and Jan Johnson.

For the first time in history three men cleared 18 feet in the same meet. Smith, from Cal State-Long Beach, and Johnson, from Alabama, finished second and third with vaults of 18-0½.

Dave Roberts, the two-time NCAA winner from Rice, finished fourth at 17-8½. The AAU champion cleared 18 feet earlier this year.

An American record fell in the 400-yard intermediate hurdles as Ralph Mann, former Brigham Young star, clipped the tape in 48.4 seconds, four-tenths of a second under the previous mark he shared.

Frank Shorter, born in Munich, earned a trip there as America's No. 1 runner in the 10,000 metres. He finished first in 28 minutes 35.6 seconds.

World records in the 100 metres and 800 metres were equalled during the trials Saturday.

Eddie Hart of San Francisco won the 100 metres in 9.9 seconds, a mark shared by three other U.S. runners, Jim Hines, Ronnie Ray Smith and Charles Green.

In the final of the 800, Dave Wottle of Bowling Green State University in Ohio equalled the world mark of 1:44.3, set by Peter Snell of New Zealand in 1962, and Australia's Ralph Doubell in 1968.

In Montreal, Lucette Moreau of Vaudreuil set a Canadian record in the women's shot put with a toss of 41 feet 10½ inches, breaking the mark held by Joan Pavelich of 40 feet 9½ inches.

Paul Laperrier of Montreal set a midget boys javelin record of 193 feet 10 inches. Claude Montmany of Trois Rivieres tied a Canadian mark for the junior men's 100-metres with a time of 10.6.

In Budapest, Eva Gleskova of Czechoslovakia equalled the world record of 11 seconds in the women's 11-metre dash Saturday. Her time equalled the mark shared by Wyomia Tyus of the United States and Chi Cheng of Taiwan.

Macs on Shooting Spree; Lace Salmonbellies 25-6

McDonalds pounded two Surrey goaltenders with 64 shots Saturday and scored 25 times — a season high — as Victoria ravaged the Salmonbellies 25-6 in a Pacific Junior A Lacrosse League game before 832 fans at Memorial Arena.

Victory kept McDonalds in first place, one point ahead of Burnaby Cablevision. The Roadrunners helped McDonald hold the lead Sunday, dropping the Cablemen 14-11, in Burnaby. Burnaby trimmed the Runners by an identical 14-11 score Saturday night in Richmond.

Jim Lynch, the league's individual scoring leader, and Kevin Alexander, brought up from the Saanich junior B's, rammed in six goals apiece to lead the Victoria rout. Lynch drew four assists.

Victoria jumped into a 9-1 lead after the first period and increased the margin to 12 goals, 17-5, after two periods.

After only two minor penalties in the first 40 minutes, tempers flared in the third period and the referees issued a rash of penalties including five majors for fighting, two game misconducts and a match misconduct.

Norm Baker of Victoria and Surrey's Walt Weaver were both thrown out of the game for continuing their fight and Pete Gibson of McDonalds was assessed a match penalty during fisticuffs with John Hanna.

Andy Reid fired three goals and Baker collected a pair for Victoria, who visit the Salmonbellies tonight in Surrey.

Sunday at Burnaby, a three-goal effort by rookie Rico Vellusci, called up from the Vancouver junior B's, paced Richmond by Burnaby.

Jerry Pinder, with his second straight three-goal game, and Harvey Olsen scored three times each for the Roadrunners, who led 9-7 after the second period.

At Richmond Mike Holden pumped in four goals to pace the Burnaby victory.

Pay-Pak on Top; Bates Out Quick

SEATTLE — Seattle Pay 'N Pak spread the word Sunday that the Pacific Northwest International Fastball League can play ball with the best in the Western United States.

The Northwest leaders won the 13-team Seattle Heidelberg Invitational softball tournament edging Sunnyvale, Calif. 2-1 in 10 innings.

Victoria Bate Construction was knocked out of the three-day tourney Saturday dropping two games after edging Yakima, Wash. 1-0 in nine innings behind Dave Ruthowski's brilliant pitching performance.

However, Ruthowski got tagged with both losses, a 3-0 decision to Sunnyvale and a hard-luck 4-3 defeat to Seattle Petchels.

Keys Names Offence; CFL Gets Good Marks

Times News Services

Head coach Eagle Keys of the British Columbia Lions announced in Penticton Sunday the Canadian Football League team's offensive lineup for Wednesday's preseason game against the Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina.

The 12-man starting offence includes quarterback Don Moorhead, fullback Jim Evenson, leading rusher in the CFL last year, and two rookies — left halfback John Musso, an All-American running back from Alabama and right halfback Monroe Eley from Arizona State.

Jim Young, who has played running back with the Lions for the past several years will play wide receiver.

Larry Highbaugh will be the other starting receiver.

Bob Howes will be at centre, Trevor Ekdahl and Ted Wheeler will be guards and Dave Golinsky and Ken Sugarman will be tackles. Dave Denny will be tight end.

In New York, generally good marks are given by a Times sports writer to Canadian football as sampled last Wednesday night when the Canadian Football League all-star game was seen on many United States television stations.

William N. Wallace, who attended a press kickoff party here at which the CFL game was presented in color on closed-circuit TV, writes:

"The significant part is that these players differ hardly at all from those in the National Football League. Several are NFL alumnis N r is this minor-league, bush football.

"Wednesday's game was a solid production, with none of the sloppy marks of our all-star games."

New York-area viewers, who won't see the all-star game until tonight when it is presented on delayed tape but in prime time on WOR-TV, are advised by Wallace to "tune in if you are a football fan starving for action."

In Montreal tonight the CFL exhibition season begins with the Alouettes playing Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Montreal coach Sam Etcheverry said his main concern will be to get a line on his four quarterbacks. Jim Chasey and Sonny Wade, the holdovers, are being pressed by Jim "King" Corcoran, a semi-pro from the Atlantic Coast League, and Steve Livas of Illinois University. Two will play tonight, with Chasey the starter. Don Jonas will start for Winnipeg.

In Green Bay, Bart Starr, who missed most of the 1971 season because of an arm ailment, said he will play again this fall. Starr is 38.

In Dorchester, Ontario, an investigation was begun into the air crash Friday that killed Billy Joe Booth, former Ottawa player, and his companion James Magee Jr.

Stewart Survives Tough Track

CLERMONT FERRAND, France (AP) — A dangerously unprepared race track here cost three top racing drivers the chance of victory in Sunday's French Grand Prix, and may have cost another the sight of an eye and ended his promising career.

Reigning world champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, back in his Tyrrell Ford after a layoff to treat a stomach ulcer, took the flag and nine valuable points in the 1972 Formula I title race, to move into second place behind Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi, second to Stewart, Sunday.

Stewart had vowed before the race to concentrate on keeping off the stone-littered edges of the winding mountain circuit where tires could puncture.

And puncture they did for his main rivals.

The first to go was New Zealand's Chris Amon, who led from pole position for the first half of the 38-lap race.

The eight-year jinx which has kept the highly-talented driver from ever winning a championship event struck on the 20th lap when a flat forced him into the pits.

He drove magnificently and set a new lap record to pull back from eighth to third place by the finish.

Stewart had a stone thrown up by a car ahead bullet through his windscreen without injuring him. But another stone hit Australian Dr. Helmuts Marko full in the left eye when Marko was sixth. Doctors operated immediately, but it will be at least three days before it is known if they saved the sight of the eye.

But when practice started Friday, the drivers found the stony edges dangerous in themselves and spreading skiddy dirt across the track.

It was probably on some dirt that Frenchman Francois Cevert skidded Friday, wrecking the front of his new Tyrrell, being raced for the first time, and injuring his wrist. He drove doggedly Sunday in bandages after pain killing injections and determinedly fought through to the fourth spot.

Fittipaldi, who had never seen the circuit before last Thursday, had problems learning the track and finding the right tires. He did not find them in practice and was only eighth on the grid but had them for the race and worked up to fifth place in the first five laps.

He moved to second as Amon, Hulme and Ickx punctured. He picked up six championship points to put him 13 points ahead of Stewart with six and perhaps seven more races to come.

Morris Third In Long Race

SEATTLE — Tom Morris of Victoria placed third Sunday out of approximately 100 riders in the Mercer Island massed-start bicycle road race.

Bill Holley of Seattle won the 54-mile contest in a time of two hours, 10 minutes.

World Mark Equalled

WARSAW (AP) — Pamela Kilborn of Australia has equalled the women's world record in the 100-metre hurdles, clocking 12.5 seconds at a track meet in Warsaw. East Germany's Annelie Erhardt had set the record June 15 in Potsdam.

BALLARD-ORR COMBINE ACQUIRES SERIES RIGHTS

Times News Services

Doug Fisher, chairman of the executive committee of Hockey Canada, said in Toronto that Canadian radio and television rights to all eight games of the Canada-Soviet hockey tournament this fall have been awarded to Ballard-Orr Sports Enterprises for $750,000.

"The $750,000 goes to Hockey Canada, to be split, ultimately between Hockey Canada and the National Hockey League Players' Association pension fund, along with whatever additional profit there will be from this program," Fisher said.

Harold Ballard is head of Maple Leaf Gardens; Bobby Orr is the all-star defenceman for Boston Bruins.

Ballard said earlier he and Orr are interested in bidding on United States rights, but Fisher said there would be no announcement on those rights before Wednesday.

"The games from Russia will be transmitted by satellite," Ballard said prior to the announcement. "But I hope to make good use of the game films, too."

Elsewhere in hockey, Chicago Cougars of the New World Hockey Association have announced the signing of veteran Reg Fleming. The rugged forward, a veteran of 13 seasons in the National League, played for Cincinnati of the American League last season.

At the same time, Quebec Nordiques, another WHA entry, have been foiled in their bid to lure centre Gil Perreault from Buffalo Sabres of the NHL. Sabres have signed Perreault to a "multi-year contract" but did not disclose exact terms.

Brentwood Crew Edged in Final

HENLEY, England — Brentwood College of Vancouver Island finished half a length behind Kent School of the United States in the final Saturday of the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup for schoolboy eights at the Henley Royal Regatta.

Brentwood gained the final Friday when awarded a victory over the Ridley College crew from St. Catharines, Ont., Ridley was disqualified through an ancient rule that may remain in force only at Henley.

A Ridley oarsman fell overboard within 200 yards of the finish after an oar-latch snapped and his mates were disqualified for lack of a full crew although they beat Brentwood to the finish by four lengths.

Brentwood coach Tony Carr, reluctant to accept the semi-final victory, requested a rerun of the race. His plea was turned down by Henley officials, who quoted a regulation of the 140-year-old regatta that any crew finishing without its full complement cannot be considered a winner of a race.

Kent's winning time against Brentwood over the one-mile, 500-yard course was seven minutes, two seconds.

UBC DISQUALIFIED

Brian Powell of Shawnigan Lake, who accompanied the crew to England, said Brentwood hoped to defeat Kent with a strong performance over the last 200 yards of the course.

"But Kent was ready for us," he added.

The only Canadian winner in Saturday's finals of this rowing classic was a coxed four from St. Catharines, which whipped an Oxford University crew by four lengths in 7:22 to capture the Prince Philip Challenge Cup.

But the University of British Columbia coxless four was not as fortunate.

The UBC crew collided with Spartak of Moscow moments after the start of their race for the Steward's Challenge Cup. UBC was disqualified and the title went to the Russian foursome.

Bob Cunliffe, a 21-year-old from Victoria on the UBC crew, said the Canadians had clearly been at fault. He blamed the accident on Strong winds blowing across the Thames during the final events.

Rich Crooker, a member of the St. Catharine's Rowing Club four, said the oarsmen had only three weeks of practice as a team.

Crooker, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, said the crew plans to take part in trials for the Olympic Games in Munich. Trials are scheduled for St. Catharines later this month.

Winner of the other Henley finals:

Ladies' Challenge Plate: Delftsche Laga, Holland.

Grande Challenge Cup: Soviet Union Olympic eight.

Thames Challenge Cup: Harvard University.

Diamond Sculls: Alexander Timoshin, Soviet Union.

Britannia Challenge Cup: Wallingford Rowing Club Britain.

Silver Goblets and Nickalls' Challenge Cup: Jerzy Broniec and Alfôas Slusavski, Poland.

Wyford Challenge Cup, Leander Rowing Club, Britain.

Visitors' Challenge Cup: University of London.

NAMED to Canada's first Olympic achery team Sunday was Vi Muir (above) of Victoria. Wanda Allan of Victoria was named an alternate on women's team, which also includes Mary Grant of Toronto, and former world champion Dorothy Lidstone of Vancouver. Members of men's team are Don Jackson, Scarborough; Wayne Pullen, Wellesley; and Elmer Ewert of Lindsay. Men's alternate is Odd Yittri of Richmond. Team will train for two weeks at Edmonton.

Baseball's Turnstiles Are Spinning

VAUGHAN TRAPP

By The Associated Press

The reports of baseball's demise seem grossly exaggerated.

Berated by a series of polls and battered first by a pre-season player strike and then by a rain-soaked month of June, the national pastime has somehow survived.

Now it is July—baseball weather, at last—and Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers are proving that if you give the fans something exciting to see, they'll come out to see it.

The Orioles and Tigers, battling for first place in the American League's East Division, climax a four-game showdown series in Detroit tonight. The first three meetings have attracted 119,500 fans to ancient Tiger Stadium, an average of a shade under 40,000 a game.

A crowd of 37,635 showed up Sunday and saw Baltimore trim the Tigers' lead down to one game with a 7-2 victory. If the Orioles can win tonight in the fourth game of the nose-to-nose confrontation, it will leave the two clubs in a flatfooted tie at the top of the division. A Detroit victory would restore the two-game Tiger lead.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians 6-1 and 5-2, Boston Red Sox took a pair from Milwaukee Brewers 15-4 and 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota Twins split a twin bill with Chicago White Sox, winning 6-4 before losing 2-1, Texas Rangers and Kansas City Royals divided two games, the Rangers winning the first 7-5 before the Royals took the second 8-3, and Oakland Athletics trimmed California Angels 3-1.

There's a new line in the National League record book today and a new team in the East Division pennant race.

San Francisco Giants' Willie McCovery blasted a record-tying 14th career grand-slam home run Sunday in the Giants' 9-3 rout of Los Angeles Dodgers while the streaking St. Louis Cardinals, 15½ games out of first place exactly one month ago, made it six victories in a row and 21 of 26 with a 7-3 trouncing of Philadelphia Phillies. The Cards trail the leading Pittsburgh Pirates by a mere 6½ games.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh downed Chicago Cubs 7-4, Montreal Expos edged New York Mets 4-3, Cincinnati Reds swamped San Diego Padres 12-2 and Houston Astros nipped Atlanta Braves 5-4.

ENDS WITH BIG CATCH

Sunday's version of the Oriole-Tiger showdown was somewhat less dramatic than Detroit's 2-0 victory Saturday, which ended with a leaping catch by Jim Northrup that turned what looked like a game-tying home run into a game-ending doubleplay instead.

That dramatic contest prompted Oriole manager Earl Weaver to say: "Anybody who saw that game on TV and doesn't go out and buy a ticket to a ball game is nuts."

Nobody in Detroit saw it—the televised game was blacked out locally—but plenty of people bought tickets for Sunday's game. This time, however, the Orioles eliminated the drama early.

Boog Powell crashed a three-run homer in the first inning and Don Buford added a two-run shot in the fifth to key the Baltimore victory.

Optimists Put Record on Line

Saanich Evening Optimists have never lost a District 13 Babe Ruth baseball tournament in eight years but they face elimination tonight at 6 at Reynolds Road Park.

Esquimalt-Victoria overcame a 4-1 deficit and went on to defeat the Optimists 8-6 in Sunday's district game at Reynolds.

Optimists, who trimmed Cosmopolitans 3-1 Saturday, will have to beat the Cosmos again tonight to advance to a third round game against Esquimalt-Victoria, who now must be beaten twice to be eliminated.

Spin Ends O'Dell Bid

A spectacular tangle on the 25th lap of the 35-lap super-stock main event Saturday night cost Rick O'Dell his chance at a fourth consecutive victory at Western Speedway.

Bill Price took the lead on the fourth lap of the feature race with O'Dell running a close second. Larry Walker moved up quickly and took over third spot, turning it into a three-way battle for the lead before a crowd of 1,952 fans.

On the 25th trip around the oval, Walker slipped underneath on the number two turn and came down the home stretch abreast of O'Dell and Price. Ron Hancock, about to be lapped, spun out in front of the grandstand, causing O'Dell and Price to lock up.

Walker avoided the mess and led the remainder of the distance.

O'Dell managed to salvage fourth place behind runner-up John Currier and Ted Mortel.

The keynote to what turned out to be a rough race was sounded during the third lap when Larry Christie of Courtenay was involved in a crash with Jim Caudwell and Doug McKenzie.

Hancock, who seemed to have trouble getting going in the main, wasn't so sluggish in the time trails. He lowered the track record of 18:40 seconds, set two weeks ago by O'Dell, to a swift 18:129.

Hot Putter Helps Trapp to Another

COWICHAN — A hot putter enabled professional Vaughan Trapp to continue his hot assault on West Coast golf tournaments.

Trapp fired a pair of two-under-par 70s at the weekend to capture top honors in the annual Carling Cowichan Open for the second straight year.

Trapp's 36-home total of 140, four under par, earned him $400 and boosted his earnings to $3,600 since May 14. Since winning the Times Island Open championship in May, the former Oak Bay assistant has won five tournaments and has been "in the money" in seven straight events.

Trapp pulled ahead of the field Sunday with a brilliant, six-hole sprint starting at the eighth hole. He one-putted the six holes, including an 83-footer on the ninth and a 55-footer on the 10th for birdies.

Top amateur was B.C. champion Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver Marine Drive. He finished in a fourth-place tie with Gordie Rands of Cedar Hill, at 148, but won a playoff with a sensational birdie three on the second extra hole.

Elcock Sparkles Both Ways

Mike Elcock's magnificent two-way performance Sunday helped Incogs trounce Alcos by 61 runs in a Victoria and district Cricket Association match at St. Michael's University School.

Elcock contributed 20 runs, six less than the total chalked up to clubmate John Wenman, as Incogs declared at 142 for eight wickets. Joe Armstrong took five Incog wickets for the loss of only 18 runs.

Alcos then failed the test against Elcock's bowling as he toppled nine for 19 — with every wicket taken by hitting the stumps. Only Michael Nation (36) and Mike Dodd (11) offered any resistance as Alcos collected 81.

In Saturday's matches, Albion and Cowichan remained in a deadlock for first place by playing to a draw at Beacon Hill Park while last-place Oak Bay was winning its first match of the season by upsetting third-place Castaways by 18 runs at Windsor Park.

Albion batted first and scored 167, all out. Keith Dixon paced Albion batsmen with a superb 96, not out, and carried it back right through the innings while Cowichan bowler Peter Wilson took four for 39. Cowichan played out time with the score of 63 for seven wickets, led by David Bolton's 23, not out. Alcos Porter toppled five Cowichan wickets for 17 runs.

Oak Bay took first crack and scored 85 but Castaway could only reach 57, all out. Cartwright Richards led Oak Bay by scoring 32 runs and taking six wickets while bowling.

"I've driven cabs a million miles. 170,000 out of one car, 140,000 with another. You just can't beat Bardahl."

Peter Simone has been a cab driver in Toronto for 25 years. He figures he's put on a million miles in that time.

Peter Simone explains why he swears by Bardahl.

"My cars run better with the stuff in it...had a '63 Ford and put 170,000 miles on it. It was still good when I gave it to a cousin of mine. Drove a Rambler and put 140,000 miles on that.

How Bardahl works.

Engine oils prevent metal-to-metal contact. But sometimes they can fail. At start-up, for instance, when the oil has drained down into the crankcase. Or, where moving parts meet, high pressures and high temperatures can heat oil to its "flash point." When this happens, oil burns off allowing the metal surfaces to touch.

With your engine robbed of protection, temperatures soar where metal meets metal. Tiny, microscopic welds and tears occur rapidly. This is a major cause of engine wear.

This won't happen with Bardahl. Bardahl, in effect, "plates" itself to metal surfaces. Even if your oil burns off at "flash point," Bardahl won't. A tough, slippery layer of molecules stay on the job. Wear is dramatically reduced.

No other oil—or other additive—has the Bardahl polar organic formula. Or anything like it.

If you care about your car, add Bardahl when you change oil.

Note: Use Bardahl 1 if your engine is in good condition and not burning oil. Bardahl 2 if it's "chattery" or smoky.

SUSIE BERNING OPEN QUEEN

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Susie Maxwell Berning captured the 20th U.S. Open golf championship for women Sunday with a final-round 71 as leader Pam Barnett soared to a 76 over the Winged Foot Golf Club East course.

Mrs. Berning, 30, who also won this event in 1968, started the day at 12 over par. But she birdied two par-five holes on the front nine to turn in 34. She caught Pam when Miss Barnett went one over on the 330-yard par four No. 15 and Mrs. Berning took a birdie two on the 17th.

The brunette mother from Incline Village, Nev., who finished with a 71-299, was already in the clubhouse when Miss Barnett bogeyed 17 and parred 18 to miss her chance for a tie or a triumph and top prize of $6,000.

Mrs. Berning's 72-hole total was 11 over par. Miss Barnett finished one stroke back in a tie with Judy Rankin and Kathy Ahern.

At 302 was Betty Burfeindt. Gloria Ehret was next at 304.

At 304 were four-time winner Mickey Wright, who shot a final-round 71, Gloria Ehret and Jane Batanchury Booth, a member of the 1970 and 1972 U.S. Curtis Cup teams. Whose 304 finish was the best by an amateur among the 58 starting competition here last Thursday.

Amateur Dale Shaw of Victoria missed the final two rounds after scoring a pair of 84s for a 168 total.

Hole-In-One Keeps Wilf With Leaders

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bruce Devlin, the onetime master plumber from Australia, hopes history will repeat itself in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

In 1970 Devlin shot a 66 in the third round of the Open. In the fourth round, he burned up the course with a 64 and won the championship.

Devlin shot a 66, five under par on the 6,905-yard Tanglewood Country Club course, in Sunday's third round of this year's rain-delayed tournament.

If history repeats itself as far as Devlin is concerned, he'll have to shoot a 64 in today's final 18 holes. A 64 in itself won't guarantee first place and the big winner's cheque. But it would take a 65 by the third-round co-leaders, Lanny Wadkins and Larry Hinson, to deny Devlin the championship.

WADKINS FIRES 67

Hinson, who had the lead or a share of it for the first two rounds, shot a 69 Sunday and was tied at 206 with Wadkins, who carded a 67. Cesar Sanudo was next at 67-207. Then came Devlin, who had a one-stroke lead on fellow Aussie David Graham, Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, and Brien Allin.

George Knudson of Toronto had 69 for a 210 total. Ben Kern of Toronto had 71 for 217.

DELAYED BY RAIN

Devlin's 65 was helped by a putter given away to good customers of a Cleveland plumbing firm. "It looks bloody awful," grinned Devlin, "but I'm hitting the centre of the cups with it." Devlin represents the plumbing concern.

Homenuik slammed a five-iron for a hole-in-one of the 165-yard No. 3 hole.

"Don't I get a car?" he asked. "Here I am hitting a hole-in-one and no one is giving away Cadillacs."

That ace, second of this tournament this year, wasn't all that new to Homenuik. He's had three in his pro career, but this was his first on the U.S. tour.

Bigelow Second In B.C. Tourney

VANCOUVER — Ernie Brown has stamped himself as one of the favorites for the national seniors' championship later this month in Victoria by winning the senior men's championship of the British Columbia Golf Association.

Finishing with a steady, four-over-par 76 Friday over the Beach Grove course near Tsawwassen, the McCleery Golf Club member completed the 54-hole event with a total of 227, five strokes in front of George Bigelow.

Bigelow, the former Canadian seniors' king from Victoria, fired a 78 in his final round after opening Thursday with a solid 71 and following Friday with a demoralizing 80.

Another stroke back in third place was Henry Mitchell, the Langara Golf Club campaigner from Vancouver who won both the provincial and national senior titles last year.

JOHN MORGAN THIRD

BARRIE, Ont. — Moe Norman, of Gilford, Ont., collected $1500 for winning the Barrie invitational golf tournament Sunday when Californian Ray Carasco squandered a six-stroke lead on the final nine holes.

Norman had a one-under-par total of 215 for the 54-hole distance while Carasco who went seven over par on the last nine, had rounds of 68, 70 and 78 to finish one stroke behind.

John Morgan of Victoria (74-70-75) and Juan Galindo of Mexico tied for third at 219.

Eric Wright Sets Pace for Seniors

Eric Wright of Gorge Vale and Royal Colwood's Alex Wilson captured major awards in the annual two-day tournament of the Vancouver Island Seniors' Golf Association.

Deadly accurate on approach shots, Wright opened with a four-over-par 74 Thursday at Colwood and finished with a five-over 75 Friday at Uplands to win the low-gross championship and the John Hart Trophy with a 36-hole total of 149.

Wilson collected the W. and J. Wilson Trophy as handicap leader after posting a net tally of 140, nipping Colwood clubmate Norman Reid by a single stroke.

Colwood won the four-man team contest with an aggregate net total of 575 with Gorge second at 583.

During the annual meeting that followed the competition, Don Sutherland of Glen Meadows, re-elected to a three-year term on the board of directors, was returned to the postion of president and Colwood's Gordon Millin was selected as vice-president.

New directors elected at the meeting where Tom Harper of Cedar Hill, Carl Simpson of Salt Spring and A. M. "Ches" Chesser of Nanaimo.

Winners and runners-up in the tournament's age-division contests:

Dolphins Lead Attack On Swimming Marks

Canadian Dolphin Swim Club of Vancouver apparently gained something from a 12-day training mission in California late in June.

The mighty Dolphins opened up a vast lead en route to picking up first place in the 15th annual three-day B.C. age-group and senior swimming championships which concluded Sunday at the Crystal Pool.

Dolphins, under the tutelage of Canadian national coach Deryk Snelling, chalked up 993 points to outdistance runner-up DeAnza Swim Club of California (571) and third-place Lake Washington Swim Club (447).

Approximately 500 competitors, representing 30 clubs in B.C., Washington, Portland and California took part in the championships, co-sponsored by Victoria Olympians and Juan de Fuca Cohoes. Cohoes finished eighth with 113 points while Olympians trailed in 13th spot with 50.

Dolphin competitors also played a major part in the destruction of 11 records during the three days.

Swimmers from the Vancouver club snapped three of the four records broken Friday, three of the four cracked on Saturday and two of the three eclipsed on Sunday.

Jennifer McHugh, Shannon Smith and Michael Ker of Dolphins each broke two national age-group records along with Clark Van der Mye of the Prince Rupert Amateur Swim Club.

BUTTERFLY RECORD

Miss McHugh set a record for 13 and 14-year-old girls on Saturday by winning the senior 200-metre butterfly event in a time of 2:31.800, slicing half a second off her old mark. She also set a new record for her age-class Friday in the 400-metre freestyle, finishing third in the senior event with a time of 4:45.765 to crack her old record set in the same pool during April.

Miss Smith established a standard of 2:56.785 in the girls' 10-and-under individual medley Sunday, shattering the old record of 3:02.5 set in 1970 by Becky Smith of Edmonton. During Saturday's event, Miss Smith filed down the 100-metre backstroke record in the same class with a time of 1:21.298. The old record of 1:21.6 was set in 1967 by Colette Duhamel of Montreal.

CALIFORNIAN WINS

Ker set his marks in the 13-and 14-boy's bracket. He finished second Saturday to lower the old 200-metre freestyle mark of 2:11.4, set in 1971 by Craig Beattie of Vancouver, with a 2:10.025 clocking. The first-place finisher was Tom Nicolaysen of De Anza S.C. from California and ineligible to set native records. On Sunday, Ker finished 12th in the senior 1,500-metre freestyle event, where he set a mark of 18:07.2 for his age-group.

Van der Mye set a new mark of 1:21.948 in the 10-and-under class 100-metre butterfly event Sunday and finished second in the freestyle race over the same distance Friday with a record time of 1:10.626. Van der Mye's time in the latter event was four seconds slower than that clocked by winner Dennis Baker of David Douglas Swim Club from Portland.

Dolphin swim teams set two records Friday in both the boys' and girls' 200-metre relay events of the 13 and 14 age class.

The boys knocked more than five seconds off the old standard set by St. James YMCA with a time of 2:04.587 and the girls took .650 of a second off the former time with a 2:18.005 clocking.

And last, but certainly not least, was Leslie Cliff of Dolphins, a triple gold-medal winner for Canada at the Pan-American Games in Cali, Colombia.

Miss Cliff set a new Canadian native record of 5:09.790 in the senior 400-metre individual medley event on Saturday, clipping her old mark of 5:10.2. Her newest time was also not so far off the Canadian open record of 5:09.7 owned by Claudia Kolb of the United States.

Rick Borrelly of Olympians chalked up the lone first place for Victoria competitors by winning the 11 and 12-year-old boys' 100-metre backstroke on Saturday.

Next event on the competitive swimming calendar is the three-day Vancouver Island championship, scheduled to start Friday in Port Alberni.

Express Cruises To Tourney Win

Esquimalt Ocean Express carved a three-game unbeaten trail to first place in the two-day annual invitational Centennial juvenile boys' softball tournament Sunday at Helmcken Park.

George Oliver's three-hit pitching helped Esquimalt to a 5-1 decision over runner-up Nanaimo Legion in the final. Chris Thompson led the Express attack with a triple that drove in three runs as Esquimalt bunched all five tallies in the first inning.

Esquimalt downed Nanaimo 2-1 earlier Sunday and toppled Sooke 3-2 in a Saturday encounter. Nanaimo bounced back into the final with a 7-0 shutout over View Royal, the third-place finisher.

Victorians Upset By Track Conflict

"There are a lot of hostile people in this town after this happening." That was, in part, Gerard Dumas' summation of Saturday's Victoria summer track and field championships at Centennial Stadium.

"The Western Canadian championships are not in danger (of cancellation) but we would like to cancel them just the same," he added. The championships are scheduled to be run off next weekend in Victoria.

Dumas was assistant meet director of the ill-fated summer event, which failed to materialize into a high-calibre tuneup for the Western Canada meet because only five athletes from the mainland turned up in Victoria.

Other mainland athletes apparently didn't show up because of a last-minute meet in Richmond that, as far as local officials know, was not sanctioned by the B.C. Track and Field Association.

The Victoria meet, organized last weekend during the Y-Times meet at Centennial Stadium, had been sanctioned by the B.C. body and was to fill a void caused by cancellation of the B.C. championships.

Stan Pelland, meet director, said he would send a letter to the B.C. body to voice his disapproval that Richmond would hold a meet in direct competition with the Victoria event.

"Officials are keenley disappointed in what happened," said Pelland "lack of communication split a competitive meet."

Only 42 athletes participated, a turnout which forced officials to mix men and women into events. Some even competed without opposition and a few races had just two entrants.

"Our meet was a complete fiasco," said Dumas in a letter to the Times.

Berry Buzzes While Bells Collect Three Victories

The 17-year-old pitching whiz hurled a five-hitter and struck out 11 batters Sunday afternoon to pace Bell's Men's Wear to a third straight win in the six-team, round-robin tournament at Heywood Park.

Bells used Berry's performance for a 6-2 victory over Century Inn and the tourney lead entering today's final round of play. Final game is tonight at 6:45.

Bells shaded Six Mile House 4-3 in eight innings earlier Sunday as they wiped out a 3-0 deficit with three runs in the sixth inning.

Two Seattle teams and a Richmond entry dropped out of the tourney forcing officials to change the event from an eight-team double loss affair to a six-team round robin fight.

Six players fattened their scoring totals Sunday as Esquimalt Teamsters pouned Victoria Island Pacific Oil 29-8 in a Vancouver Island Intermediate Lacrosse League game at Memorial Arena.

Rick La Pointe, Ross McKinistry and Darrell Deane fired four goals apiece and John Entzminger, Rick Leggett and Keith Treichel scored three times each to lead the Esquimalt barrage.

Teamsters, unbeaten in league play, barged into a 14-3 lead after 20 minutes and had a 20-4 advantage after two periods.

The Mercedes-Benz 250.

A most desirable sedan

The Mercedes-Benz 250 is a deceptive car. Under its neatly tailored bodywork lies the near perfect mating of suspension, brakes and powerplant that makes this jewel of a car a joy to drive.

You survey the world in lofty comfort from inside the 250. And so do your passengers. The rear seat holds three in comfort, and is definitely not second-class accommodation.

Four speed automatic transmission is standard. So is the all-independent suspension system, and the dependable power disc brakes on all four wheels.

This superb blend of components makes the Mercedes-Benz 250 a most desirable sedan. But the only way you can really appreciate this jewel is by taking a test drive. And when you do, we believe you'll want to make this the year you will finally own a Mercedes-Benz.

Reunited . . . After 44 Years

VANCOUVER — A 44-year separation for two sisters ended Sunday when Lea Witzke arrived at Vancouver International Airport after flights from Patzik in Southern Russia.

The reunion is credited, in part, to the direct consideration of the sisters' plight by Premier Alexei Kosygin of the Soviet Union.

Lea's sister Alicia of Vancouver thought for many years she was dead. Then a stray letter arrived, in 1955, and set off a string of efforts through government sources for Lea to come to Canada.

Finally an appeal was handed to an aide of premier Kosygin by Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell when the Russian leader visited the city last year.

Caouette Sunday forecast a Nov. 6 vote.

He predicted the defeat by Social Credit candidates of three cabinet ministers Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien.

DETROIT — John Paul drove his car to the Humane Society and said he would like to have a 5½-foot boa constrictor named Sam removed from under the dashboard.

Paul said the serpent, a pet of his girl-friend, had been there for a week.

He said his girl-friend was driving the snake back from a checkup after suspecting the reptile had a cold. On the drive home, Sam crawled up under the dash.

BOSTON (AP) — A homemade will found between the pages of a book titled How to Avoid Probate is the centre of a $3-million case in Suffolk Probate Court.

The will purports to be that of Maxwell E. Richmond, who died Oct. 22, 1971. He was head of Richmond Brothers Inc., which owned and operated a Boston radio station.

The will was found in the book at Richmond's office by a brother.

When the brother offered it for probate, several relatives filed objection claiming that it was not a proper will.

TORONTO — Linda Sorensen, formerly of Vancouver has been selected for one of the four lead roles in a film comedy called the Merry Wives of Tobias Rouke.

Shooting will begin this month on the film, set in Ontario in the middle of the 19th century.

Mormon Leader Dies at 95

SALT LAKE CITY — The man called prophet, seer and revelator by millions of Mormons, Joseph Fielding Smith Jr., died of a heart attack Sunday night at the home of a daughter. He would have been 96 July 19.

Smith addressed the last general conference of the church in April and had not been ill.

He was the son of another church president and grand nephew of church founder Joseph Smith. Likely successor is Harold F. Lee, 73, who has been first counsellor to the president and president of church's Council of The Twelve.

RE-LOCATED because of continued violence in recent years, the famed Newport Jazz Festival is being held this year at New York's Carnegie Hall. But the music, from performers such as pianist Cecil Taylor, remains the same.

Clipping Seed Pods Keeps Annuals Blooming

Flowering annuals among our summer bedding plants continue their gay decoration of gardens for a longer period if the plants are not exhausted by the setting of seeds.

This is a normal function and the object of the plant's life, but since it doesn't fit into our own schemes the gardener interferes so that more flowers will be produced for human pleasure.

Fortunately many summer annuals rarely set seeds here in our climate. The petunia is an example of a constantly flowering annual from early June to September. In a sunny well-prepared soil petunias make new growths, the plants getting larger each week with a succession of blooms that is almost unbelievable. Old flowers simply fold up and fall.

At the other end of the annual scale we think of snapdragons setting seed as soon as the bottom (or first) flowers fade on the spike while the top buds are still unopened.

Even so, constant blooming can be attained by cutting the flower spikes as soon as the lowest flowers fade or drop. This applies to dwarf varieties as well as those taller kinds so useful for cut flower displays.

By stripping off the lower seed pods and using suitable foliage to hide the stripped stems, the flowers fulfill a need for a bowl of flowers in the house.

This method of preventing seed formation on snapdragons resulted in the production of 60 useable cut flower stems from one plant of a lovely pure white named Alaska. This was by actual recorded count through the season on a tagged plant.

Dahlias gown from seed will continue flowering profusely until frost if every flower head is snipped off as soon as petals drop. This is true too of the large-flowered dahlias, but their number is less and the faded blooms more obvious.

Marigolds of the so-called African and French types are a bit of a nuisance to keep free of seedpods, for they set so many it's almost impossible to keep ahead of them.

However, for some reason, these marigolds maintain the blooming very well, perhaps because few of the seeds reach maturity in our climate. And abundant foliage keeps the plants flourishing.

A few annuals are short lived in spite of all we do. Examples of these are schizanthus, the Butterfly-plant and Nemesia. They seem to have one rather short period of a few weeks when the plants are covered with flowers, but even cutting them off as soon as they fade fails to prolong the season.

Perhaps a plant biologist would tell us that their foliage is too fragile or sparse to support another crop of flowers.

SOLUTION TUESDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

It has been stated that "bad bidding develops good bridge players." This means that bad bidders frequently arrive at poor contracts, from which they must either extricate themselves or perish. With self-preservation being the motivating force, they learn to extricate themselves.

In today's deal, our South declarer bid poorly. He had no business being in a grand-slam contract. However, he did fulfill his bid, in expert fashion.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♠	Pass	7 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♡

Had South taken the time to bid five notrump over North's five-spade — Blackwood response, he would have discovered that his partnership was lacking a king. He would then probably have stopped at six spades. But in this case there would have been no story to tell.

The opening heart lead was taken by South's ace, after which the ace and king of trumps were cashed. A heart was then led to the board's king, and this was followed by a third heart, South ruffing.

Next came the ace, king, and queen of diamonds. South then started to play his remaining trumps. This was the position prior to the lead of South's last trump: dummy had the seven of hearts and the A-10 of clubs; West possessed the jack of hearts and the K-9 of clubs. South had a trump and a the Q-2 of clubs.

When South now led his remaining trump, West found himself in an untenable position. He couldn't discard his jack of hearts, for if he did he would promote dummy's seven of hearts into a winner. And so he was forced to throw away the nine of clubs, thereby unguarding his king. On this trick the seven of hearts was discareded from dummy.

Declarer correctly diagnosing the situation, now led his deuce of clubs, and West's king was captured by dummy's ace. South's queen of clubs, thanks to a squeeze on West now became, declarer's thirteenth trick.

It should be pointed out that if declarer had not ruffed a third heart lead in the early stages of play, the squeeze would not have been operative. In this set-up, West could have discarded his jack of hearts, for East's nine-spot would then have covered dummy's seven. By ruffing a third heart declarer "eliminated" East's nine as a threat.

British Bugged Kosygin

LONDON (AP) — In the early hours of Monday, Feb. 13, 1967, Alexei Kosygin telephoned Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow from the elegant luxury of a London hotel suite.

The Soviet premier apparently did not know that every word he uttered was being heard by the British. Disclosure of one of the most sensational British intelligence operations of modern times came from Washington with publication of the latest volumes of the Pentagon Papers.

FACADE

Behind a facade of calm unconcern, British authorities are angry with their American friends; embarrassed, too, that their bugging of a Soviet leader has exposed them to Moscow attack.

They also are remembering bitterly how lapses in their own security system were assailed by Americans who, for whatever reasons, have now been instrumental in compromising British intelligence operations.

"Every head of government who visits London will assume that he is being bugged," one high source remarked.

DISTINCTION

It is possible that most important statesmen assume their conversations and activities are monitored anyway.

But British authorities see a distinction between an assumption and something that has been confirmed, however inadvertently.

Kosygin was a guest of the British government from Feb. 6 to 13, 1967, when Harold Wilson was prime minister.

Their week-long exchanges covered many matters but the main focus was on a search for a basis of ending the Vietnam war.

DISASTROUS

But the response of then president Lyndon Johnson's U.S. administration to his initiative proved disastrous.

As the authors of the Pentagon Papers told the story, Kosygin, to the evident surprise of Washington at the time, had agreed to sent certain proposals handed him by Wilson on to Hanoi.

These proposals promised a break-through to peace talks.

The Pentagon Papers, in a crucial passage, comment: On Feb. 13 he — Kosygin — was overhead by telephone intercept to tell Brezhnev of a great possibility of achieving the aim, if the Vietnamese will understand the present situation that we have passed to them; then they will have to decide. All they need to do is to give a confidential declaration."

QUESTIONS

Against this background several questions arise.

How could so experienced a man as Kosygin allow himself to be bugged?

Who carried out the operation?

Had it been going on for long?

Political and other British authorities involved in the episode and in the talks at the time, answering a reporter's questions, have come up with some of the answers.

The informants, who insist on anonymity, report.

Kosygin, who had his own security men with him, could not have known he was being overheard. His telephone was not tapped.

High Octane Zips Ahead

COWICHAN STATION — Just a week after horse schooler Fran Joyce sold her thoroughbred High Octane, he won the Western Canadian Championship combined training event in Calgary.

High Octane, 8, placed top in his league while ridden by new owner Anne Philby, of Calgary, at the competitions held at Graham Ranches Ltd. on June 18.

Mrs. Joyce, who has been schooling horses at her Wyelbury Stables in Cowichan Station for the past 10 years, said "it makes me very proud to have the horse I trained win in Calgary where they go into everything in a big way."

She explained that a horse must be versatile with ability in dressage, cross-country and stadium jumping to place well in combined eventing.

"By the new owner winning the competitive event just a week after purchasing High Octane, it proved the horse is well trained," she added.

Space Factory For Enzyme?

WASHINGTON (WP) — A team of industry-university students believes it is possible to make a rare and costly enzyme that dissolves blood clots by producing it in the weightless conditions of outer space.

So convinced is the research team of the worth of making this enzyme in space that it is about to submit a proposal to the space agency that the enzyme be produced aboard the Apollo spacecraft that will be flown in earth orbit in 1975 for the joint American-Russian docking mission.

The enzyme is named urokinase and has been successfully used in the last four years by the National Heart and Lung Institute to treat 236 victims of pulmonary embolisms, clots that block the flow of blood to the lungs. The body produces urokinase, but not enough to dissolve clots that cause embolisms.

The heart and lung institute paid $500,000 for the urokinase it has used in treating embolisms, a price that breaks down to more than $1,000 per patient. The urokinase was extracted from human male urine by an unwieldly process that produces only one dose of the enzyme from 1,500 quarts of urine.

A new method of making urokinase is what prompted an industry-university team to propose production of the enzyme in space. The team consists of Chicago's Abbott Laboratories, San Diego's Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. and the UCLA school of medicine.

The new method involves making the enzyme from the kidney cells of miscarried fetuses, which produce 50 times more urokinase than urine does. Kidney cells also turn out to be more manageable. A quart bottle of tiny but abundant kidney cells would be the equivalent of 50,000 quart bottles of urine.

A problem with kidney cells is that only one in 20 can be made to produce urokinase, which is where the Abbott-Convair-UCLA team came together to suggest that the enzyme be made in space. At the heart of their suggestion is the development by UCLA biophysicist Alexander Kolin of a machine that separates the one "active" kidney cell from the 19 inactive cells that don't make urokinase.

Kolin's device separates the cells by electrophoresis, using a moving electrical field to carry cells of different densities along at different rates of speed. Kolin has already shown that he can isolate the active kidney cells on earth, a procedure he and his colleagues believe can be better done in space where there is no gravity working against separation.

SWEEPS WINNER 'NOT EXCITED'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A 64-year-old Hamilton steelworker, winner of about $120,000 in Saturday's Irish sweepstakes, says he is too old to get excited about his good fortune.

Wasyl Stefanec, a foreman at the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd., says he has no plans for the money. A native of Manitoba, he is married with no children and is scheduled to retire next year after 32 years with Steleo.

Stefanec's winning ticket was actually purchased by a neighbor. It has been the policy of the two men over a number of years to buy two tickets apiece and put the other person's name on the ones they bought.

Stefanec, one of five Canadians holding tickets on the winning horse, Steel Pulse, says he has no immediate plans to share any of his winnings.

The other first-place ticket holders in Canada are Emmerson F. Michaelis of London, Ont., Mrs. R. Mayes of Scarborough, Ont., J. Van den Hoogen of Oakville, Ont. and W. T. Armstrong of Labrador City, Nfld.

For Karl Langille of Truro, N.S., a ticket on second-place Scottish Rifle proved a favorable turn of events after considerable bad luck.

Langille is confined to a wheelchair because of partial paralysis suffered in a diving accident some years ago. Two months ago, his hardware business burned down.

Obscenity Charge Laid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Obscenity charges have been laid in connection with three movies passed for local showing by provincial film classifier Ray McDonald.

Night and Day Theatre and Henry Chow, alleged to be connected with the theatre, were summonsed to appear in provincial court July 19 on charges of exposing an obscene movie and possessing obscene movies for the purpose of exposing them to public view.

The movies named in the charges are entitled Documenatary of a Madam, Mother Knows Best, and Lack of Virtue.

Adventure Playground: Ropes, Sun And Lots and Lots of Fun

By BRUCE OBEE
Times Staff

Recipe for an adventure playground: mix one truckload of old logs and tires with long ropes and a landing net, put a water-logged rowboat in 10 inches of sand, sprinkle the entire pile with a little imagination and leave for generations of children.

An adventure playground, of course, is not simply thrown together. The average age, height and weight of the potential adventurers must be considered before plans are drawn.

A local initiatives group, working with a $7,000 federal grant, constructed such a playground earlier this year at St. Joseph's Day School, 745 West Burnside. It has been used by youngsters of all ages every day since.

Rev. Bernard Hanley, pastor of St. Joseph's parish said this type of park "provides more opportunity for individual initiative and creativity. The children decide how to use the equipment because no plan is made by adults."

Bert Hayes, administrator of Glendale Hospital, a home for the mentally and physically handicapped, said plans are being drawn for a similar playground at Glendale.

He said the scale will have to be modified because some of the older patients may have a child's mentality and weigh more than 150 pounds.

The idea of adventure playgrounds arose in the 1940s when a Danish landscape architect noticed more children at construction sites and junkyards than at traditional play parks.

He furnished one in Copenhagen with left-over building materials and other junk. It was a tremendous success and they have since been gaining world-wide popularity.

Blind Granny Top Citizen

WATLING
. . . an inspiration

A blind grandmother who has been an inspiration to other handicapped Victorians for more than 30 years was named Victoria's Good Citizen of the Year in a ceremony Sunday afternoon.

In 1934, shortly before the birth of her third child, she became totally blind overnight as the result of an accident three years earlier.

A year later Mrs. Watling had resumed her old activities including singing in the St. Columbus church choir — a pastime she has enjoyed for 40 years.

She raised her three lively children without any outside help and soon found herself helping other blind and handicapped people and working towards prevention of blindness wherever possible.

Instrumental in organizing the Canadian Council of the Blind, Mrs. Watling has presided over the local council since its creation 26 years ago.

She is also president of the B.C. and Yukon regional councils.

The Canadian Council of the Blind is an organization totally composed of blind persons who arrange social and recreational activities as well as self-help programs for the area blind.

"Handicapped people in need of help or comfort usually end up phoning Mrs. Watling," Native Sons representative John Sullivan explained.

Facelift Planned for Chinatown

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

An urban development plan to revitalize 20 shops in Chinatown will be unveiled Thursday by the Fan-Tan Development Company of Victoria.

Company spokesman Milton A. Tisdale said financing plans would not be completed until the Thursday meeting with government officials and participating members of the Chinese community.

"All I can tell you now is that it will be like a Chinese shopping centre and will be of interest to Victorians who remember Chinatown the way it used to be," he said.

However, it is believed the company has already acquired ownership of two stores and one large building on Fisgard and has options on the remaining property involved.

Cost of revitalizing the shops could be $250,000 in the first phase with additional funds being spent later on upper floors.

The plan would be to improve existing buildings in Fan-Tan Alley, Fisgard and Pandora streets to produce about 20 shops, arcades and outdoor tea gardens.

The shops, all owned by the company, would be leased out on a controlled basis to fit in with the theme of Pacific Rim trade.

Although Chinatown would be emphasized in the project, shops would include goods of all Pacific Rim countries as well — with the emphasis on India, China and Japan.

Some shops might be remodelled and in business by September but it likely would be Christmas before the whole project could have its official opening.

Stores selling Chinese goods would try to recapture the atmosphere of early Chinatown as much as possible.

It is understood that if successful the project could be expanded to other sections of Chinatown, with the long-range aim of revitalizing that complete section of the city.

Most of the shops involved in the first stage of development are already empty, although some people are renting upstairs rooms at present.

Much of the expense of the preliminary stage of development will be involved in new plumbing and electrical installations.

Signing of documents to launch the project is set for 4:30 p.m. Thursday at the company's headquarters, 1249 Rockland Avenue.

Murder Bid Charged In Downtown Stabbing

A 41-year-old Dallas Road man was charged in provincial court today with attempted murder in the knifing of another man in a downtown doorway Sunday afternoon.

Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre registered a mandatory plea of not guilty for Royden Gaylord Morrison, 137 Dallas Rd.

He was remanded in custody to July 10 to fix a date for preliminary hearing.

Michael Borushko, 40, of 1310 Government, was found slumped over in the entrance to 978 Yates at 12:23 p.m. Police arrested Morrison in the area seven minutes later.

Borushko had been stabbed once in the centre of the chest.

The hospital spokesman said the victim was in "very bad shape" when he was admitted, and is being watched closely in the intensive care unit.

TRUCKERS SIGN PACT

Agreement with southern Vancouver Island gravel truckers has been reached by Island Equipment Operators' Association boosting pay and fringe benefits an average 10 per cent.

About 100 drivers are covered in the new contract with Teamsters Union local 213 for two years retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972. Fifteen companies are represented by the association.

Spokesman John Chew, chairman of IEOA bargaining committee, said the two-stage increase would result in rates of $5.06-$5.30 an hour for dump truck drivers this year and $5.51-$5.75 from Jan. 1 next year.

He said negotiations continue with the Operating Engineers union.

Sun Lures Crowds Outdoors

Keeping cool was the order of the weekend as Victoria sun-lovers flocked to outdoor recreational areas and beaches to seek relief from 80-degree temperatures.

Victoria weather office reported a high of 81 degrees Sunday and today could be the hottest this year with a possible 88 degrees. The hottest day so far was May 28 with 83 degrees.

Local boaters crowded marinas and harbors while campers set up three and four tents and trailers per campsite. Parks and picnic sites were equally crowded.

RCMP officers, who augmented their forces to control the crowds at Long Beach and Salt Spring Island said both area were fairly quiet.

B.C. Ferries officials said there were no tie-ups at ferry terminals although some ferry travellers reported two-hour delays.

Queen Victoria and Royal Jubilee Hospitals reported no cases of sunstroke.

RCMP detachments at Colwood, Sooke and Sidney said crowds were well-behaved in their respective areas and there were no traffic fatalities.

Nuns Request Zoning Rule

Saanich council has received its first application under legislation permitting a land use contract to be drawn up for special development projects.

The application was made by the law firm of Sullivan, Smith and Bigelow on behalf of the Sisters of St. Ann for their Queenswood House of Studies at 2494 Arbutus.

At present, the house of studies is non-conforming to zoning in its neighborhood, which consists largely of single family housing.

If in future the sisters wished to alter the land use they would have to apply for an amendment to the contract.

Tagna Named Champ Goat

Willis School Lists Awards

Margareta Dijak won the $50 I.O.D.E. scholarship and topped the Grade 10 academic awards list.

The school athletic cup went to Lori Skinner and Duncan MacDonald. Top vocational student was Doug Muir and the Science Plaque was taken by Trevor McLeod.

Citizenship cups went to Debbie Pynn, Grade 8, Shannon Lezetc and Annie Krankevic, Grade 9, and Gerry Justice, Grade 10.

Developer's Deal Panned by Bunn

A long-time member of the Oak Bay Recreation Commission is adamantly opposed to the controversial swap proposal of Farmer Construction Ltd.

Peter Bunn, a member of the commission for 10 years, has written Mayor Frances Elford and council members, deploring Farmer's suggestion that it be handed the 9.3-acre former riding academy site in exchange for building a curling-ice hockey centre.

Farmer hopes to build three 12-storey towers and 50 town houses on the site.

Council voted 4-3 against putting the swap proposal to referendum at its June 19 meeting.

In his letter, Bunn says "I compliment the far-sighted and economically aware aldermen who have seen through this proposed venture."

However, the mayor is encouraging a campaign by members of the Oak Bay Recreation Action Group, who are carrying out a canvass for support of the Farmer proposal.

Bunn asserts his "full support for a recreation complex with swimming pool" but says he would not support the Farmer proposal under any circumstances.

He suggests to council:

"Surely it is up to our elected council (with advice from its administration and sports groups) to define the community recreational needs, to interpret these into a physical plant, complete with a price tag, and then by referendum ask all the people who will 'pay the piper' whether or not it's 'their tune'."

SIDNEY'S MISS MERMAID, Alison Pennie, 10411 Resthaven, reigned over the town's July 1 celebrations Saturday which included red coated Mounties and even one reluctant sheep representing the Sidney recreation commission. The $2,500 raised by the celebrations will go toward community projects. (Pat Munson photo).

New Clinic Eyes Drugs, The Child

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill University has recently announced the establishment of a clinical pharmacology unit, one of about three in the world, aimed at taking the guesswork out of the use of drugs on babies and young children.

The laboratory — the Roche Development Pharmacology Unit — will investigate the action of various drugs on the child after testing in animals.

Dr. Allen H. Neims, a pediatrician and biochemist selected from Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore to direct the unit, said many drugs are largely untested in children before they go on the market.

SWAG Fights Male Police

The Status of Women Action Group has taken up the case of former policewoman Janet Holmes who quit the Victoria force after five years claiming she had "reached a dead end" in her career.

Holmes appealed to SWAG's recently-formed omsbud service to bring "the whole question of discrimination against women in police work here out in the open."

SWAG members questioned Saanich chief of police Bob Peterson and Victoria assistant chief Ray Maitland recently in an effort to determine whether police policy toward policewomen contravened sections of the B.C. Human Rights Act.

Kathleen Ruff, SWAG president and provincial NDP candidate for Victoria, says there appears to be discrimination against women with regards to pay and chances for promotion.

She says policewomen are limited in their duties and segregated in a "dead end category" which prevents them from rising any higher on the force than the equivalent of a second class constable.

At present, Saanich is the only force in the greater Victoria area employing one single policewoman. There are 81 men on the Saanich force.

Interviews are being arranged by SWAG with Esquimalt and Oak Bay chiefs of police.

Mrs. Ruff described Saanich chief of police Bob Peterson as "enthusiastic" about women police. "Peterson thinks more women will soon be needed and that they can fulfill the same jobs as men."

She says that Victoria assistant chief Ray Maitland, however, appears to believe a policewoman's role should be restricted to "things a man can't possibly do, such as searching female prisoners and escorting female mental patients to the washroom."

Mrs. Ruff pointed out that at present police women are segregated in a separate category and have no hope of promotion to a rank higher than the equivalent of second class constable.

"The only way a woman could reach a higher rank would be if enough women were hired so that she would be in charge of a female group," Mrs. Ruff said. "There is a definite feeling that men would resent a woman of higher rank than themselves."

She says there appears to be discrimination in pay as well as in opportunity for promotion. First grade constables earn $861 a month compared to $788 for a first grade policewoman, the same salary paid a second class constable.

Mrs. Ruff says local police forces are "not allowing women to use their capabilities" in police work. "They shouldn't hire women if they are only going to let them push a pencil."

Mrs. Ruff pointed out that other provinces make better use of their policewomen and find no difficulties involved in promoting them.

She thinks that an all-male police force represents only the attitudes and opinions of the male population.

"Police forces in a just society should reflect all segments of that society," Mrs. Ruff said. "Otherwise they are inviting confrontation, resentment and hostility."

She points out that a large part of police work involved human relations at, which women excel. "Hiring more women could make the police more human."

Contrasts Bewilder

Back in her Ottawa office after a round-the-world survey for the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, that took her more than 40,000 miles through three continents, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova writes that she is bewildered by the contrast between our own Canada and what lies behind her; the hunger, and the "shockingly low living conditions for millions who have never known anything better in their lives."

Her last stop was Korea. There, on a "very sunny beautiful afternoon" she helped celebrate 20 years of USC assistance to that country "over a cup of tea and a few cookies in the garden of the National Medical Centre."

Dr. Lotta was the first representative of a Canadian voluntary organization to be invited by the United Nations to make a survey of Korean needs at the height of the fighting, back in 1952.

Since then, this indomitable little woman says "I have seen miracles achieved."

Outstanding in the long list of pilot projects, aided by USC, is the Sam Yook Disabled Children's Home.

It began in 1955 when Dr. Lotta discovered a ramshackle house in which severely handicapped children — most of them victims of war — were being housed without necessary food, medical care or professional supervision.

The USC fought and won official backing to have those children — and many like them — placed in proper housing and under proper supervision.

Today, the Korean government together with Seoul City are constructing a complex of four buildings for a new Sam Yook Centre. When completed, it may well be the best physical rehabilitation institute for disabled children "in the whole of Asia."

The USC together with the Norwegian Korean Association played a decisive role in 1960-61 in helping Mokpo City on the Yellow Sea to establish a hospital for tubercular children.

To assist in complete rehabilitation, social services including Canadian barley and milk, warm clothing, quilts and blankets and counselling were given to families of the tubercular children.

It was the USC that introduced the idea of medical social workers in Korea.

When the rate of abandonment of babies and small children grew during the difficult days of the early 60s, the USC opened model reception centres where in order to keep families together, assistance was given to parents.

This time when Dr. Lotta was in Mokpo, she was told vastly improved conditions has resulted in the reception centre being changed into a day care centre for working parents.

In briefly describing Korea's Third Year Plan, just begun, and in which the USC is interested, Dr. Lotta speaks of the great impetus being placed on helping farmers reach a higher standard of living.

Most farm work is still being done by hand in the rice paddies and on vegetable fields, she says. Tractors are "very, very rare."

So the government is now emphasizing the need for discarding outmoded customs and encouraging the development of rural leadership "if the farmers are ever to become able to purchase the products which are being created by Korean industry."

Hand in hand with this revival is to go increased productivity through new rice strains, irrigation and the creation of electric power.

Final test, as Dr. Lotta points out, depends on the farmers themselves. And from what she learned through USC rural development workers in those villages where "food for work" projects are going on as a shared responsibility, she believes the enthusiasm is sincere and effective.

Outdoor crafts bring children together

Playground Project Aims At 'Unlearning Ideas'

City and reservation came together today, as children from Victoria and the Songhees Indian band attended the first day of the Songhees Summer Playground.

City children, under the supervision of five counsellors from the Songhee Reserve and three "Y" trained counsellors, meet each day at the "Y" on Courtney and are bussed out to the day camp on Admirals Road in what one of the playground's staff calls "a neat way for kids to unlearn mistaken ideas about one another."

Fifty prospective day-campers, aged 6 to 12, will be offered an array of crafts, outdoor games, hikes and swimming during each two-week session. Cost for the two-week session is $3, to cover bus transportation from town to the day camp. If parents bring their children by car, there is no charge at all, but all parents are asked to supply pack lunches for their youngsters.

Further details and registration for the playground are available from the Youth Department of Victoria YM-YWCA at 880 Courtney St., or by phoning 386-7511. Playground counsellors would also welcome gifts or loans of sports equipment (bats, balls, etc.) for the summer period.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Tuesday, July 4, 1972
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Cycle high and you will receive publicity. Agreements, partnership and otherwise, are subject to quick changes, revision. The unorthodox is featured. Aquarius, Scorpio and Leo persons figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Areas previously closed or rejected may open. Be ready and articulate. Say what you mean — mean what you say. Gemini and Virgo are likely to be involved. You will have chance for greater freedom.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friendships are tested. Unusual activity is featured at home. Keep close watch on finances. Purchase luxury item, but do plenty of comparison shopping. Some hopes, desires are subject to revision.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get together with one you respect, including professional superior. Be receptive. But also be discriminating. Some now will make promises. Key is to listen and learn without believing everything. Pisces is involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accept special task, assignment. One in position to return favor intends to do so. Know it and act accordingly. Relative acts in eccentric manner. Don't take it too seriously. Check reservations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now is time to finish rather than begin. This means, among other things, to finish paying and start collecting. Get together with Aries to settle financial dilemma. Take special care while in traffic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Forces tend to be scattered. Don't take anyone for granted, including partner or mate. You have desire to be on your own. Give this plenty of thought. Avoid making break over nothing. Give logic equal time and impulse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You gain access to confidential information. Play knowledge in low key. You gain by being receptive. Aquarian could be very much in picture. Your security is at stake. Know it and respond accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You learn difference between genuine attraction and mere flirtation. Plenty of socializing is on agenda. Another Sagittarian could figure prominently. Go places. See and be seen. Emerge from emotional shell.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Restrictions, details are featured. You get opportunity to enhance security. Emphasis is on building, property improvement. Family members may argue. Stay out of firing line. You'll be happier as result.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You want to travel, but there is need for delay. Know it and accordingly. Gemini and Virgo individuals play important roles. Avoid trying to do too much at once. Let dust settle before making final decision.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Guard valuables. Avoid unnecessary risks. Stick close to home base. Stay with the familiar. One who wants to speculate is perfectly willing to do so — with your money. Know this and protect yourself.

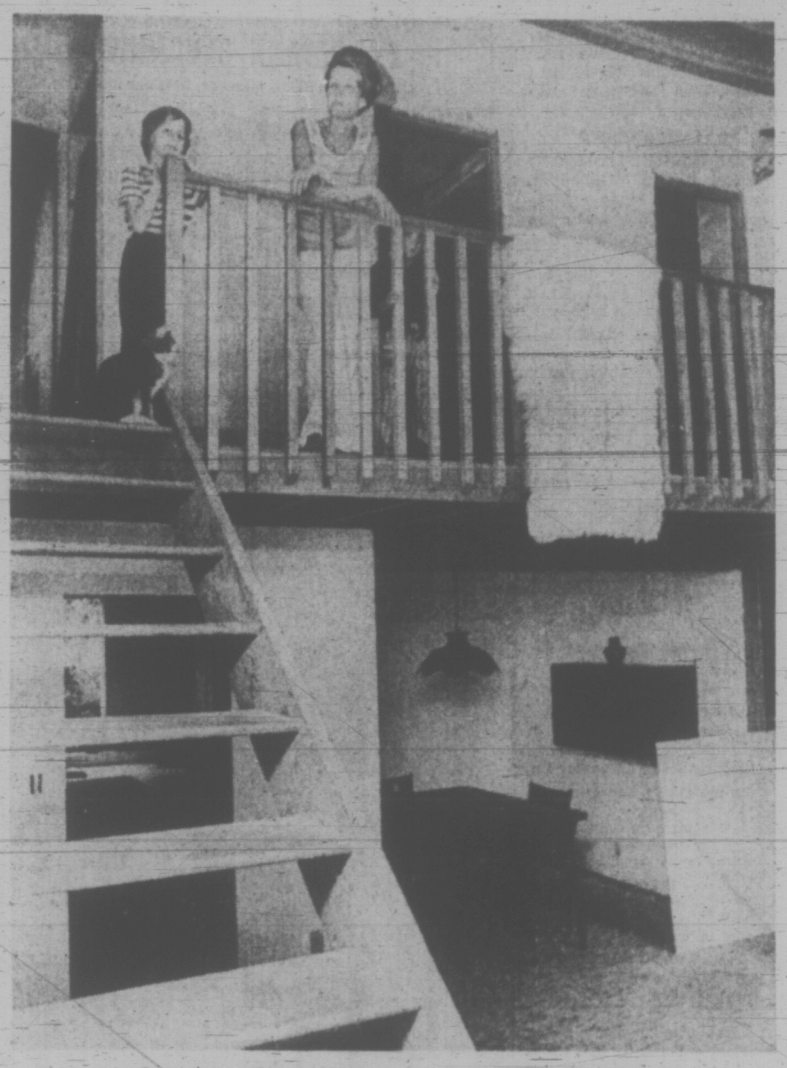
Harbor Home Was No Beauty

Not everything grows more beautiful with age say the owners of this home on Esquimalt Harbor. The third in a series of four articles on home improvements tells how they tackled ugliness.



Once roofless, Broussons pause for breather

By ANN DUNSMUIR
Times Staff

Owners of older homes frequently tell how "love at first sight" was what persuaded them to buy the house.

They decided to move into the unattractive house in the fall of 1970 and remodel it themselves. Work on the house was postponed until the end of the 1970 school year.

Brousson, a teacher at Edward Milne Secondary School in Sooke, knew he would have to work full time on the house during the early stages of remodelling.

The Victoria architect who undertook the planning described the original house as a "real dog." His design called for addition of a second storey and two -storey-high windows overlooking the harbor.

As Brousson had no previous experience reading blueprints and would be doing most of the work himself, the architect had to make sure his plans were readily intelligible to a layman.

"We weren't working with a contractor used to reading plans," the architect explained.

The kitchen was moved from the waterfront side of the house to the back and set into an alcove which juts out from the exterior wall. To allow for this alcove, a large rock had to be removed. Brousson rented a jack hammer and spent about a week demolishing the rock.

Dug Basement

He also dug a basement room for the furnace — the original house was heated by space heaters.

For two weeks last July, the Broussons and their two children, Michelle, 6, and Colin, 4, lived in a house without a roof over their heads, as the man of the house added a second storey giving them three bedrooms and a bathroom.

One wall of the master bedroom is formed by a gallery overlooking the living room. "We have a clear view of the harbor through the living room windows from the bedroom," Mrs. Brousson said.

The couple installed all window glass except the two two-storey cathedral-style windows themselves. "We thought we would save money by doing the work ourselves but we broke one of the bigger panes and ended up paying as much to replace the glass as we would have paid to have it installed," Mrs. Brousson said.

Michelle's bunk, for example fits into a recess that juts out in Colin's room. His bunk fits on top of the recess so that although the children have the privacy of separate rooms the space occupied by their beds equals that need for a standard bunk bed.

Although most of the major reconstruction was finished by the fall of 1971, there is still some work to be done on the exterior and living room and family room are unfinished.

Winter Work

The couple spent the winter months installing insulation and wallboard, plastering and painting. Recently Brousson has been working on the ceiling which covers both living room and family room.

Fitting the tongue and groove cedar boards to supports is a tedious job involving metal scaffolding which must be taken apart and reassembled each time work shifts from family room to living room.

This summer the old garage will be demolished and replaced by a carport and sundeck. "We would also like to get the flooring and carpeting in," Mrs. Brousson said.

Although she loves the remodelled house, she now thinks it might have been easier to "tear it all down and build closer to the water.

"We saved some money by using the old foundations but not a great deal," she said.

So far, the Broussons have spent about $12,000 on renovations and estimate total cost will be about $15,000.

Mrs. Brousson has one final warning for couples who decide to be their own contractor — make sure you know a good garbage dump.

Freeloaders Stop Short If Money Enters Picture

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter signed "All Torn Up" describing a husband who was Johnny-on-the-spot to do chores for the neighbors, while his own remained undone, I was reminded of how my mother solved the same problem.

My father was a wonderful mechanic who worked daily at his job from 8 till 5. We lived on a small ranch, and during his "free" hours he was supposed to do all the things one must do on a ranch, such as milking, irrigation, fence-mending, barn repairs, etc.

Friends and neighbors would meet Dad at the gate as he came home, with, "If you have a minute will you please check my brakes, the timing, or the radiator?" Dad, being the big-hearted man he was, never said no. His hot dinner was often eaten cold. Weekends he spent repairing a friend's car, truck or tractor while his own ranch work was left undone. Mother often made minor repairs or irrigated with the aid of a flashlight. (This after she had done her own work during the day.)

Finally Mother had "notices" printed and passed them out to these unsolicited "customers." They read: "Mechanic on duty Monday through Friday, 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Charge $8 per hour. Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Charge $10 per hour.

DEAR ABBY: You told a correspondent that you were sure there were many men who had forgiven an adulterous wife, but you weren't prepared to cite name, rank and serial number. I submit one who not only forgave his wife, but he paid to get her back:

Name: Hosea (husband of Gover).

Rank: Servant of the Lord.

Serial Number: Book of Hosea, Chapters 1, 2 and 3.

Layer Jelly Has Eye Appeal

By MARY MOORE

A three-layered jelly that will catch your eye follows. It will catch the eye of many a church luncheon and banquet convener too. Clip this and put it in your jellied dessert file.

RED AND YELLOW THREE-LAYERED JELLY

1 3-oz. pkg. strawberry jelly powder
1 c. boiling water
¾ c. cold water

Middle layer:

2 c. milk (divided—see below)
2 tbsp. sugar
1 tbsp. plain gelatine

Bottom layer:

4 c. rhubarb cut into one-inch pieces
1 cup water
½ c. sugar
2 tbsp. plain gelatine

To prepare bottom layer cook rhubarb with water in a large pot over medium heat until rhubarb is very tender. Add two-thirds cup sugar and two tablespoons plain gelatine and stir to dissolve. Pour into bottom of an 8x8x2-inch pan and let cool in refrigerator until almost set.

To prepare middle layer stir custard powder into ¼ cup of the milk until smooth. Heat the remaining 1¾ cups milk with the sugar and 1 tablespoon plain gelatine until dissolved. Pour the custard liquid into the hot milk mixture stirring constantly. Cook over medium heat until custard thickens. Cool then pour over partially set rhubarb layer and refrigerate until nearly set.

To prepare top layer dissolve jelly powder in boiling water. Add cold water and stir. Cool in refrigerator until slightly syrupy. Pour over custard layer and chill until completely set.

To serve cut into 2½-inch squares.

CAUTION: If you make this in very hot weather be sure to keep it refrigerated until serving time.

GENTLEMAN CONN BEST

MONTREAL — Gentleman Conn, with Sandy Hawley aboard, overtook Henry Tudor in the stretch and won the 23rd running of the Quebec Derby by a neck Sunday with a time of 1:51 for the 1¼ mile race.

Happy Victory finished third in the $32,285 race as the winner earned $19,371 for owner Saul Wagman of Toronto.

'Shadow' Charges To 'Cap Victory

VANCOUVER (CP) — Shadows Dividend, voted the top three-year-old in British Columbia last year, emulated his 1971 form with a three-length victory in the $6,625 Dominion Day Handicap Saturday at Exhibition Park.

After finishing third in his first two starts this year, Shadows dividend came from far back to score impressively in the 1 1/16 mile race for Canadian-breds.

Ataman took second by a half-length over Sky Hunter, and favored Winning Charge tired badly to finish sixth and last.

Shadows Dividend, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Druce of Victoria, was clocked in an unspectacular 1:45 4-5, the same time in which Dominquin II won the eighth race on the card.

The holiday crowd of 11,007 wagered a record $623,600 on the 10 races. The previous Exhibition Park record of $564,678 was set on Labor Day, 1969.

Son of Northern Dancer Wins Irish Sweeps Derby

THE CURRAGH, Ireland (AP) — English-owned Steel Pulse, a 10-to-1 shot, drew away in the final half mile Saturday and won the Irish Sweepstakes Derby as American-owned Roberto, winner of the English Derby, finished far back.

Steel Pulse is a son of 1962 Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer, a Canadian-bred who also sired Nijinsky, one of only two horses to have won the English and Irish derbys. Northern Dancer was owned by industrialist E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

Steel Pulse's head victory over English-owned Scottish Rifle, also a long shot, was worth $153,205 to owner Rabi Tikkoo and about $120,000 to anyone holding an Irish Sweepstakes ticket on the winner.

Ballymore, owned by Mrs. J. R. Mullion, wife of a United States shipping magnate, and the second favorite, finished third, in the 1¼-mile race over a rain-soaked turf course. Star Lark was fourth in the 14-horse field.

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY

Steel Pulse was ridden by Australian Bill Williamson, who had been taken off Roberto on the eve of that colt's English Derby victory. Lester Piggott rode Roberto in the English Derby but because of a committment had to ride Ballymore Saturday. Johnny Roe was aboard Roberto.

Extension, a stablemate of Ballymore, built a 15-length lead after three-quarters of a mile but was caught by the pack at the mile mark.

RAIN CHECKS AT RACES AFTER COMPUTER BALKS

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Speedy Crown hung on in torrid stretch drive with Flower Child and won the $50,000 American Trotting Championship, climaxing a night of confusion Saturday Night at Roosevelt Raceway.

The ATC went off as the fifth race. As soon as it was over, the remaining four races were cancelled because of computer difficulties which led to the ATC and three of the other four races being declared non-betting affairs.

The management issued rain checks to the more than 30,000 fans present, but made no explanation of what caused the trouble that blacked out the tote board in the infield.

Speedy Crown's triumph was his fourth in a row and automatically qualified him for the $125,000 Roosevelt International Trot July 15. Flower Child also qualified with his second-place finish.

Riva Ridge Nips Outsider

Times News Services

Riva Ridge, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, clipped outsider Bicker by less than a length in the $109,900 Hollywood Derby Saturday at Inglewood, Calif.

The Meadow Stable three-year-old, ridden by Ron Turcotte at his highest-ever impost of 129 pounds, grabbed the lead of the 1¼-mile race while passing the grandstand for the first time and led the rest of the way along the rail.

The winning margin in the photo finish was a neck for the sleek bay son of First Landing, who upped his career earnings to $862,150 — richest of active thoroughbreds — with the $59,900 first-place purse.

Turcotte, a native of Grande Falls, N.B., urged Riva Ridge to a 1:59 3-5 clocking on the fast track.

Riva Ridge paid $3.20, $3 and $2.20 and Bicker, a non-stakes winner, paid $5.80 and $3 by finishing a half-length ahead of Finalista.

It was the fifth victory for Riva Ridge in seven starts this year, with the two defeats, both fourth-place finishes in the Preakness and Everglades Stakes over muddy tracks.

At Suffolk Downs in Boston Sunday, Droll Role, a four-year-old son of one-time sensation Tom Rolfe, came off the pace heading into the stretch and pulled away to a comfortable victory in the $116,800 Massachusetts Handicap.

Second choice in the field of 13, Droll Role posted his third consecutive victory for New York banker John M. Schiff in scoring by three lengths over Hitchcock, who got up in the final strides to edge Native Royalty, the favorite, by a head.

Droll Role, given a confident ride by Eddie Maple, covered the 1⅛-mile route in 1:45 1-5.

It was almost a dead heat Sunday at Stanton, Del., as On Your Toes edged New Alibhai and won the $29,750 Brandywine Turf Handicap.

Ridden by Bill Hartack, On Your Toes stepped the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:45 1-5.

9 IN MEMORIAM

VASSAR — In loving memory of my loving husband, William A. Vassar, who passed away suddenly July 2, 1971. Late residence 10-344 Island Highway, Victoria, B.C. Time speed on, one year has passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from me a shining light.
I miss that light, and always will,
Your vacant place there is none to fill
Down here I mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
Forever in my thoughts, your loving wife, Joyce.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

A Woman Tells About Cancer

Recently there came to my desk a book entitled "So I had Breast Cancer — And How Are You?" written by Elaine Venable Dorsey. The book is a personal account of what a woman can go through when she must face, first losing her right breast for cancer, then her womb, and then her left breast, also for cancer. Then she had to go through an agony of cobalt treatments.

This is not a reassuring book for the average woman with breast cancer. Mrs. Dorsey had a number of special problems. For example, drugs such as anesthetics and pain-killers worked wrongly on her. Also, she describes a type of surgery in which the entire breast and the tissue in the arm-pit are removed.

What is hopeful about the book is that it shows what a courageous woman can face and overcome. It is cheering to know that even though her first cancer was unusually big, she recovered and is now alive and happy eight years later. The book is also a warning to all women to go to a doctor immediately, at the first sign of a lump in the breast or arm-pit.

Dr. Herschel S. Horowitz, for example, showed that during a 12-year study in Elk Lake, Penn., there was an over-all reduction in tooth decay of nearly 40 per cent after adding fluoride to the city water. In 1958, 60 first molars were lost for each 100 children studied. In 1970, the number had dropped to 24.

APPROVAL OF FLUORIDATION OF WATER SUPPLIES

In the past so many people have violently opposed the fluoridation of city water because they feared that it would harm their health. I have often written of studies showing not only that fluoridation is not harmful, but that it helps children to have good teeth. It also helps aging people delay the gradual process of the bones becoming brittle, which often causes backache and the collapse of the spine.

Those persons who still doubt the value of fluoridation should read the authoritative papers on the subject presented at the recent meeting of the International Association for Dental Research. Certainly, these doctors should know what is good for teeth and for the health of their patients.

In 1968, it was estimated that about 46 million people in the United States live in geographic areas which are not served by central water supplies. In such communities a tiny amount of fluoride has to be added to the water.

People who worry about the danger of adding what they call "rat poison" to the water may not realize that the tiny amount added is not poisonous to rats or to man. They may not realize that fluoride is found naturally in the water supplies of many communities in the United States.

OAK BAY SEAVIEW

5 bdrm home for the large family or legal duplex for the smaller family. Either way you will enjoy this spacious home created in the Edwardian era of the early 1900s. Your fine antiques will appear to good advantage in the large high ceiling drawing room and dining room. Cosy comfort you ask? Try the fireplace in the den with its beautiful view, or either of the intimate sun-rooms. Enjoy outdoor living? How about a gorgeous view from the side of a 9x18 filtered pool? Like a feeling of space around you? Almost two acres here with a high point providing 360 degree view. Situated amongst other fine estates and convenient to both ferryboats and the city makes it ideal for doctors, and others. If you like the features mentioned above but don't really want all that ground you may sell half of it, because it consists of two lots. That way you may enjoy this fine home at much less than the asking price of $90,000. And don't forget that you may also derive some revenue because it is a legal duplex. May I show it to you?

I'M NOT A B... SAYS TRUDEAU

TORONTO — Prime Minister Trudeau said during a television talk show Saturday "I suppose you don't have to be a bastard," to be prime minister of Canada, "but you have to accept appearing to be a bastard to some people." Trudeau was a guest on the Norm Perry Saturday Night Show on CFTO-TV, Toronto.

Co-host Carole Taylor asked the prime minister if he thought he had to be "a bit of a bastard" to be in his position.

Trudeau said "you can't please everyone." He said many people dissatisfied with government action on such matters as taxation and welfare "think you're a bastard because you're not pushing what they want."

Perry asked if Trudeau's life style had changed. "I'm pretty well my own man," Trudeau said. He still drives sport cars and wears sandals but now enjoys "going home to see my wife and kid," he added.

U.S. WAGES WAR WITH WEATHER

New York Times

WASHINGTON — The United States has been secretly seeding clouds over North Vietnam, Laos and South Vietnam to increase and control the rainfall for military purposes.

One well-informed source also said that navy scientists were responsible for developing a new kind of chemical agent effective in the warm stratus clouds that often shield many key anti-aircraft sites in northern parts of North Vietnam.

The chemical, he said, "produced a rain that had an acidic quality to it and it would foul up mechanical equipment — like radar, trucks and tanks."

Government sources, both civilian and military, said during an extensive series of interviews that the U.S. Air Force cloud-seeding program has been aimed most recently at hindering movement of North Vietnamese troops and equipment and suppressing

The disclosure confirmed growing speculation in congressional and scientific circles about the use of weather modification in Southeast Asia.

The weather manipulation in Indochina, which was first tried in South Vietnam in 1963, is the first confirmed use of meteorological warfare. Although it is not prohibited by any international conventions on warfare, artificial rain-making has been strenuously opposed by some U.S. state department officials.

Beginning in 1967, some state department officials protested that the United States, by deliberately altering the natural rainfall in parts of Indochina, was taking environmental risks of unknown proportions. But many advocates of the operation have found little wrong with using weather modification as a military weapon.

"What's worse," one official asked "dropping bombs or rain?"

Officially, the White House and state department declined comment on the use of meteorological warfare. "This is one of those things where no one is going to say anything," one official said.

Most officials interviewed agreed that the seeding had accomplished one of its main objectives — muddying roads and flooding lines of communication.

According to interviews, the Central Intelligence Agency initiated the use of cloud seeding over Hue, in the northern part of South Vietnam. "We first used that stuff in about August of 1963," one former CIA agent said, "when the Diem regime was having all that trouble with the Buddhists.

"They would just stand around during demonstrations when the police threw tear gas at them, but we noticed that when the rains came they wouldn't stay on" the former agent said.

7 More Irish Deaths

BELFAST (UPI) — One of the bloodiest weekends of Ulster violence pushed the death toll today to 400 for the three years of Northern Ireland terror and threatened to smash the week-old ceasefire.

Police said two bullet-riddled and hooded bodies were discovered in Belfast today, bringing to seven the number of persons killed in gunbattles or executed by militants this weekend.

The body of a man was found in a car abandoned near Belfast's Crumlin Road jail before dawn, and a passerby on his way to work in the same area found the body of a young man dumped in Twickenham Street.

STILL ANOTHER

Police said they also were on the lookout for a man who may be still another execution victim — August "Gusty" Spence, a 39-year-old Protestant who had been serving a life sentence for murdering a Roman Catholic bartender in 1966. Gunmen kidnapped Spence Sunday night as he was returning to jail from a two-day parole granted to allow him to attend his daughter's wedding and visit his ailing mother.

Both the IRA and the British army emphasized they considered the ceasefire still in force despite the heavy gun battle Sunday morning in Belfast's Old Park area and fresh outbursts early today between Protestants, Catholics and troops across the M-1 superhighway leading to Dublin.

Children playing soccer found the bodies of two Protestants Sunday night on a cricket ground in Belfast's Old Park district, near the scene of an early morning fight between Protestants, Catholics and British troops. They were identified as truck-driver Hugh Clawson and bus-driver David Fisher, both 30.

Like an unidentified body of a man dumped from a car soon afterward in the Forth River of West Belfast, they had been shot through the head, the hallmark of extremist executions.

CAMP WORKER

Two more victims of the first weekend since the IRA declared a ceasefire last Monday were Daniel Hayes, 41, a Catholic, and Earl Jobling, a 19-year-old Jehovah's Witness.

The wave of killings occurred as the Protestant paramilitary Ulster Defence Association created the first barricaded Protestant "no go" areas in Northern Ireland in protest against the British army's failure to wipe out IRA-controlled Catholic "no-go" areas in Londonderry.

PROTESTANT JUSTICE is meted out by cudgel-wielding members of the Ulster Defence Association who stand guard in Belfast over a youth from the Protestant Shankhill Road district. Youth was beaten, charged with "breaking and entering" and "attempted indecent assault."

Pakistan, India Sign Peace Pact

New York Times

SIMLA, India — India and Pakistan have agreed to withdraw all troops from the tense borders between the two countries, to freeze present troop positions in Kashmir pending further negotiations on that explosive dispute and to undertake a "step by step" normalization of their relations.

The agreement, putting an end to the diplomatic impasse that has existed since the two-week war between the two countires last December, was signed early today by Prime Minister Indira Gadhi of India and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan.

After five days of negotiations on the terms of the settlement, top aides of the two leaders put the finishing touches on the agreement late Sunday night.

The pact, described by an Indian spokesman as "an international agreement capable of being filed with the United Nations," binds the often quarreling neighbor states to seek peaceful solutions to the problems that have taken them to war four times since they came into existence 25 years ago.

However, in accordance with a promise made by Bhutto to his nation's parliament, the agreement actually will come into effect only upon its acceptance by the Pakistan National Assembly. That body is scheduled to meet Aug. 15, but Bhutto could call an earlier session.

A high Pakastani official declared that the agreement is only a beginning toward a final settlement of the Kashmire dispute, which is held to be the key to a lasting peace between the two countries.

The repatriation of some 70,000 Pakistani troops and about 20,000 Pakistani civilians held by India since the December war has been listed as one of the questions to be settled by further negotiations, which may again involve a summit meeting between Mrs. Gandhi and Bhutto.

OIL SPILL PACT

Premier Bennett and Washington Governor Dan Evans will sign a joint agreement on oil spill prevention and clean-up next Monday at the Blaine Peace Arch.

A memorandum of agreement between the state and the province has been formulated by a committee of legislators and civil servants that has been meeting recently.

No details of the agreement have been announced, but it will list the steps the two governments will take in the event of an oil spill and will aim at prevention of spills in the future.

The meeting started after an oil spill June 4 at the Atlantic Richfield refinery at Cherry Point. Oil from the spill drifted north and fouled beaches in B.C., notably White Rock.

An aide to Evans said the meeting between Bennett and Evans is believed to be the first ever between a Washington governor and a B.C. premier.

The aide said the two government heads will also discuss other issues "that range the whole spectrum of problems between the two areas, including fisheries and other environmental affairs."

'Excessive French' July 1 Sparks Sharp Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — Protests against alleged excessive use of French marked the aftermath of Dominion Day festivities on Parliament Hill. Although thousands of local residents and tourists obviously enjoyed themselves at the show, two members of Parliament later criticized what they felt was dominance of the event by the French language.

Two members of Parliament complained bitterly that the French language had dominated the musical presentations.

They referred to Montreal pianist Andre Gagnon, whose renditions of his own compositions were well received by the audience.

Gagnon, who is not fluent in English, spoke in French when he introduced the works. His comments were translated into English by an unseen announcer, so that strollers and listeners missed none of his words.

But local Liberal MP Lloyd Francis (Ottawa West) called the French introductions "monstrously bad taste."

He said "the program certainly was not in the spirit of bilingualism."

J. Angus MacLean, Conservative member for Malpeque also criticized alleged French dominance of the performance and called for an explanation.

They were joined in the criticism by Alex Campbell, premier of Prince Edward Island who was with a group of 60 from his province in Ottawa to promote 1973 as the centennial of the island province joining Confederation.

Skyjacker Slain

Times News Services

A 21-year-old Vietnamese who had just graduated with honors from the University of Washington in Seattle was shot dead in Saigon Sunday in an abortive attempt to hijack a Pan Am jumbo jet.

Nguyen Thai Binh had demanded that the Boeing 747 be flown to Hanoi. He brandished a bomb — which turned out to be two lemons wrapped in tinfoil — to enforce his demands.

He had earlier grabbed a hostess as hostage and sent two notes, one written in his own blood, to the captain, Gene Vaughan, asking that the Saigon-bound plane with 149 persons aboard head for North Vietnam.

Instead, Vaughan landed in Saigon and went aft "saying I wanted to reason with him."

Vaughan jumped the skyjacker and: "I shouted 'Kill the son of a bitch' and a passenger put five bullets into him."

The man who shot Binh was not identified. He is believed to be a former San Francisco area policeman.

Port Talks Resume

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernard Wilson, deputy labor minister, was meeting with both sides today to try to find a solution to the 48-day strike that has crippled three St. Lawrence River ports.

DRUG PROBER HAD HASHISH

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lawrence Paul Rubin, who says he worked for a couple of weeks two years ago in field research for the Le Dain commission on the non-medical use of drugs, has been fined $350 for possession of hashish.

Rubin, 28, of Winnipeg, Manitoba-Saskatchewan coordinator for a federal project dealing with the non-medical use of drugs, pleaded guilty.

Victoria Racer Loses Rudder

After leading the Victoria-Mauri yachts Sunday, Bob Horner's Pandora of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club is out of the race with a broken rudder.

At last report today, she was returning under her own power with a makeshift steering device and apparently headed for Grays Harbor on the Washington coast.

At daily roll call time Sunday she and W. F. Nesbit's 48-foot sloop Flame of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club were ahead of the other boats, past Cape Flattery at the mouth of the Juan de Fuca Strait.

Both boats were about 130 miles out in the Pacific, on course for Hawaii.

Following in their wake, about five miles behind was Don Findlay's Bluey II of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Findlay crewed aboard J. R. Imbs' Long Gone in 1966, when she won the first Victoria-Mauri race, and bought Bluey II in order to have a try at the classic in his own boat.

HEADS SOUTH

Four American boats were grouped behind Bluey II. They are Tom Bush's Satin Doll and I. M. Marta's Patriot, both of Corinthian Yacht Club; G. O. Smith's Siren of the Tacoma Yacht Club and W. B. Black's Cherokee of CYC.

One boat of the 19-strong fleet followed a different strategy, which may pay off. P. L. Peoples' Co-Motion of CYC, instead of heading out, was working her way down the Washington coast toward California.

However, if the remainder of the fleet are able to work their way around the high Co-Motion could find herself bringing up the rear.

Boy Drowns At Beaver

The accident occurred at 10 a.m. when the boys were swimming on the west side of the lake, opposite the lifeguarded area.

The victim apparently got a cramp, and then became tangled in weeds 20 feet from shore.

Andre Ockevaar, 118 Menzies, heard cries for help and went to the area. He pulled one boy from the water who had weeds wrapped around his neck and arms. The dead boy, also tangled, was not in sight.

Saanich police and fire department officials arrived about 10 minutes later. Navy divers had found no trace of the body at noon today.

The boy's name is being withheld until next-of-kin have been notified.

Saanich Police Insp. John Post said the department wanted to warn swimmers as the season progresses that swimming in other than designated areas at recreation spots is dangerous.

Weeds and irregular terrain in non-designated areas make venturing into them "extremely hazardous," Post said.

DAD COLLECTS VASECTOMY PRIZE

HONOLULU (UPI) — Frank Shivers, 29, father of 10-month-old twin boys, won first prize in a contest sponsored by Zero Population Growth.

"I feel fine," said Shivers a few hours after collecting the prize, a free vasectomy.

MARTHA WINS: JOHN QUITS NIXON POST

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Mitchell, apparently bowing to an ultimatum telephoned to the world by his irrepressible wife, has resigned as director of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The committee for the re-election of the president announced the former United States attorney-general was stepping down, less than a week after Martha Mitchell told reporters she was leaving him until he got out of politics.

She made known her discontent last Sunday and Monday from the Westchester Country Club at Rye, N.Y. Mitchell flew there Monday and they returned to Washington mid-week, apparently reconciled.

But apparently the reconciliation was on Martha's terms because the announcement said Mitchell "has resigned as campaign director in order to devote more time to his wife and family."

MONEY NEEDS URGENT: QUEBEC

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said at the weekend he is ready to "use whatever means are necessary" to assure a larger share of federal money for Quebec and the other provinces.

"We have shown almost oriental patience in the last two years, but now it has become important that there be a net transfer of revenue in the next fiscal year," he said in a radio interview.

"It is not a question of having a shouting match with the federal government.

"It is a question for the provinces, and particularly in my case for Quebec, that there is sufficient revenue to meet our responsibilities and it now is urgent that necessary means to accomplish this be discussed."

Deadline Set for Fischer

Times News Services

With a 5 a.m. Victoria time deadline looming Tuesday for Bobby Fischer, the international chess world is beginning to seethe over the U.S. grand master's prima donna tactics in stalling a world championship series.

Fischer, who Sunday was ordered to be at the board in Reykjavik by noon Tuesday (Icelandic time), or be disqualified in his title shot against Boris Spassky of Russia, today was accused of a "blatant extortion attempt" by one of the series' sponsors.

The world series of chess was originally scheduled to open Sunday with a $125,000 purse at stake. Under the terms of the series, the winner would get five-eighths of the purse.

Each player was also to get 30 per cent of the proceeds from TV and movie rights to the series.

Late last week, Fischer from a New York hideout, demanded that he also be given 30 per cent of the gate receipts from the series.

Meanwhile, a British banker today came up with a cash offer that might change Fischer's mind by offering to throw another $150,000 into the kitty.

"Fischer has said money is the problem, here's the money," challenged James D. Slater.

Slater said that his $150,000 could be used in one of two ways, either on a winner-take-all basis or tacked onto the purse and added to the prize split.

Spassky, however, remained unperturbed over the controversy surrounding the series.

Quiet Period Seen for Bonds

TORONTO (CP) — Analysts predict the quiet pace of the bond market since the beginning of the year will continue for the next few months.

There has been upward pressure on money rates since the beginning of the year. In late May, Burns Bros. and Denton Ltd. cited easy access to bank loans for corporations and the light volume of new issues as two reasons for the trend to higher rates and a market slump.

According to Douglas Coape-Arnold in a duPont Glore Forgan research report, the money supply situation is "fairly strong, bolstered by the inflow of foreign funds, rising corporate profits, greater money velocity and higher personal savings."

The largest bond issue in Canadian corporate bond history was issue in early June by TransCanada PipeLines Ltd, a $140-million issue with a 20-year delive

As mortgage rates moved higher, the resulting shift of capital from long-term bonds to mortgages pushed long-term rates higher.

BCTF Vows to Continue Fight Despite Ruling by Top Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Teachers' Federation leaders vowed Sunday to continue the fight against the Social Credit government and its educational policies after a setback in B.C. Supreme court.

But Jim MacFarlan, first vice-president of the BCTF, said the fight would not break the law.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre granted an interim injunction Friday pending a trial on the question of the "war chest" of the teachers to oppose legislation which puts a ceiling on the limit the government will contribute to teacher salary increases.

The injunction temporarily stops the federation from continuing to collect money from teachers and spending money already collected.

The federation earlier this year approved a levy of one day's salary on each of its 23,000 members for a political action fund.

Details of the injunction will not be made available until Tuesday. An all-day executive meeting has been scheduled by the federation for Thursday.

After the decision BCTF president Adam Robertson issued a statement of regret over the findings and said his organization was considering an appeal.

"We find the decision very unfortunate because two dissident members have thwarted the actions of 20,000 members who volunteered their wages," said MacFarlan.

He said by the end of the school term last week between 92 and 94 per cent of the membership had paid a day's wages into the fund.

"The decision prevents the overwhelming majority of teachers from exercising their democratic right, to become involved in the political life of the province," MacFarlan said.

"We are convinced the majority of teachers, as individual citizens, are going to exercise their rights in one form or another. If the organization is prohibited from acting, then 20,000 teachers will act on their own consciences."

The injunction does not rule on the legality of the BCTF fund or its method of collection, but merely halts the fund until a court can decide on the question.

Chichester Puts Ashore Goes Into Hospital

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — British yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester, forced to withdraw from a solo trans-Atlantic race because of bad luck and ill health, entered a Royal Navy hospital today for a physical checkup.

His son Giles, 25, and three Royal Navy yachtsmen helped him on the final leg of the return.

"My father took a battering in rough weather in the first two or three days of the race," young Chichester said. "Then he took a pain-killing injection which had some interesting side effects."

SIR FRANCIS

Sir Francis said that the injection gave him hallucinations and left him weak and exhausted.

"It put me out altogether," he said. This, combined with a bad radio, proved too much for the mariner, who had been warned against making the trip because of poor health. When spotted by a search plane, he signalled he was sick and cold.

A French weather ship, France II, first offered him assistance but knocked off the top of his yacht's mizzenmast in the process. Later a British frigate, the HMS Salisbury, hove into view with an emergency yacht team and Chichester's son was flown aboard by helicopter.

Chichester, suffering for months from a blood ailment, entered the trans-Atlantic race — "not to win," according to his son, "but just to finish — to sail the Atlantic just one more time."

Vancouver Shootings Claim 2

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are searching for gunmen who shot and killed two men in separate incidents early Saturday morning.

Brian Martin, 24, of Vancouver, died in hospital Sunday after being shot in the side while trying to settle a dispute over a cover charge at a Vancouver night club.

Police were told Martin was shot in the side with a high-power rifle when he tried to talk the gunman into giving up his weapon.

Instead, the man shot Martin, then ran out into the street and fired at least six shots at neighboring buildings and parked cars before fleeing on foot.

Witnesses said Martin was not involved in the dispute and was just trying to calm the gunman down.

In the second incident, police said the small-calibre bullet that killed Ruscitto was fired from a small, black truck parked nearby with its motor running.

Court Hearing Begins Over Calif. Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for Sen. George S. McGovern's California delegates charged in federal court today that the Democratic convention credentials committee illegally changed the rules in stripping 151 McGovern supporters of their seats.

At a hearing before U.S. District Judge George Hart, attorney Joseph Rauh said that before the California primary all candidates were willing to abide by the state's winner-take-all provision.

"Now suddenly what was clear is to be changed," Rauh argued. "All of a sudden, after it was over, a challenge was filed."

The committee created an explosive controversy last week by voting to apportion the 271-member California delegation on the number of votes the Candidates received and on that basis ruled in favor of 151 non-McGovern challengers.

Rauh, on behalf of McGovern's California supporters, filed suit asking that the action be reversed.

However, Hart commented during the court hearing: "It may not be cricket to change the rules, it may even be dirty pool, but is it unconstitutional?"

He also asked: "How far are the courts going to get into violations of party rules?"

ITT Plan Reported To Crush Allende

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The International Telephone and Telegraph Co. urged the Nixon administration to follow an 18-point plan the vast conglomerate suggested to force the collapse of Chilean President Salvador Allende's leftist government, the New York Times says.

The ITT plan included economic warfare and Chilean military sabotage, assisted by a special White House division, the Central Intelligence Agency and various foreign governments, The Times says.

The outline was contained in a letter and memorandum dated Oct. 1, 1971 obtained by The Times. The letter was written by William R. Merriam, vice-president in charge of ITT's Washington relations, and addressed to Peter G. Peterson, then international economic affairs assistant to President Nixon.

The ITT plan suggested an "economic squeeze" on Chile through denial of international loans, ban on imports of Chilean products such as copper and prohibition of exports to the country, to force "economic chaos," The Times quotes the letter as saying.

The suggestions were sent two days after Chile had expropriated the Chilean Telephone Co. (Chiltelco), in which ITT had owned a 70-per-cent interest.

Peterson said in an interview with The Times that he did not remember having read the memorandum.

Documents published earlier this year by columnist Jack Anderson revealed contact between ITT and the CIA on how to prevent Allende from being inaugurated.

The White House did not act on the measures, although months later it did invoke its own sanctions against the country, the paper says.

Report Denied

TORONTO — News reports that a Northwest Territories councillor was removed from an aircraft en route to Resolution Island by order of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation have been labelled by the company as "erroneous."

Councillor Bryan Pearson, in a Canadian Press story charged that he was ordered from a "civilian aircraft" by ITT and that a Distant Early Warning site is located on Resolution Island.

In a statement issued from Toronto, ITT said the company was not involved in activities of any kind on Resolution Island and had no knowledge of Pearson's movements. The company also said there is no DewLine site on Resolution.

The DewLine is operated by ITT under contract to the United States Air Force, which functions in conjunction with the department of national defence for the Canadian sectors of the line. The DewLine comprises 31 stations along the Arctic Circle, running from Alaska in the west to Greenland.

The "MAN and RESOURCES" Conference

HOW DOES IT AFFECT YOU?

Well, come and see, and participate.

WHO? You, the public of Victoria to Mill Bay and Jordan River to the Gulf Islands.

WHAT? Man and Resources Public Meetings.

WHEN? Wednesday evenings, July 5, 12 and 19, at 7:30 p.m. Everyone welcome to one or to all the meetings!

AN EXPLANATION

The Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers wants to learn the public's wishes about our natural resources and our environment.

This is a grass-roots invitation to all of us to express our desires and wishes about caring for, developing and maintaining the quality and quantity of the Canadian heritage, for our use and for the generations to follow. Your chairmen for the meetings are: Ray Ferris, July 5; John Hicks, July 12; and Hal Knight, July 19.

For your interest, here is a sample list of the many organizations responsible for the Southern Vancouver Island meetings:

B.C. Bar Association Canadian Petroleum Association Project Recycle Salvation Army SPEC Council of Churches Canadian Institute of Forestry Victoria Medical Society Voice of Women Sierra Club SPHERE Greater Victoria School Board Real Estate Board P.C.B.

So come along! Think over, say, five environmental or natural resource issues which affect your desired way of life. Present these issues and problems at the meetings. In this way, you will participate and contribute and find out the answers to WHY the "MAN and RESOURCES" Conference AFFECTS YOU.

Adventure Playground: Ropes, Sun And Lots and Lots of Fun

By BRUCE OBEE
Times Staff

Recipe for an adventure playground: mix one truckload of old logs and tires with long ropes and a landing net, put a water-logged rowboat in 10 inches of sand, sprinkle the entire pile with a little imagination and leave for generations of children.

An adventure playground, of course, is not simply thrown together. The average age, height and weight of the potential adventurers must be considered before plans are drawn.

A local initiatives group, working with a $7,000 federal grant, constructed such a playground earlier this year at St. Joseph's Day School, 745 West Burnside. It has been used by youngsters of all ages every day since.

Rev. Bernard Hanley, pastor of St. Joseph's parish said this type of park "provides more opportunity for individual initiative and creativity. The children decide how to use the equipment because no plan is made by adults."

Bert Hayes, administrator of Glendale Hospital, a home for the mentally and physically handicapped, said plans are being drawn for a similar playground at Glendale.

He said the scale will have to be modified because some of the older patients may have a child's mentality and weigh more than 150 pounds.

The idea of adventure playgrounds arose in the 1940s when a Danish landscape architect noticed more children at construction sites and junkyards than at traditional play parks.

He furnished on in Copenhagen with left-over building materials and other junk. It was a tremendous success and they have since been gaining world-wide popularity.

Blind Granny Top Citizen

WATLING

A blind grandmother who has been an inspiration to other handicapped Victorians for more than 30 years was made Victoria's Good Citizen of the Year in a ceremony Sunday afternoon.

In 1934, shortly before the birth of her third child, she became totally blind overnight as the result of an accident three years earlier.

A year later Mrs. Watling had resumed her old activities including singing in the St. Columbus church choir — a pastime she has enjoyed for 40 years.

She raised her three lively children without any outside help and soon found herself helping other blind and handicapped people and working towards prevention of blindness wherever possible.

Instrumental in organizing the Canadian Council of the Blind, Mrs. Watling has presided over the local council since its creation 26 years ago.

She is also president of the B.C. and Yukon regional councils.

The Canadian Council of the Blind is an organization totally composed of blind persons who arrange social and recreational activities as well as self-help programs for the area blind.

"Handicapped people in need of help or comfort usually end up phoning Mrs. Watling," Native Sons representative John Sullivan explained.

Facelift Planned for Chinatown

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

An urban development plan to revitalize 20 shops in Chinatown will be unveiled Thursday by the Fan-Tan Development Company of Victoria.

Company spokesman Milton A. Tisdale said financing plans would not be completed until the Thursday meeting with government officials and participating members of the Chinese community.

"All I can tell you now is that it will be like a Chinese shopping centre and will be of interest to Victorians who remember Chinatown the way it used to be," he said.

However, it is believed the company has already acquired ownership of two stores and one large building on Fisgard and has options on the remaining property involved.

Cost of revitalizing the shops could be $250,000 in the first phase with additional funds being spent later on upper floors.

The plan would be to improve existing buildings in Fan-Tan Alley, Fisgard and Pandora streets to produce about 20 shops, arcades and outdoor tea gardens.

Although Chinatown would be emphasized in the project, shops would include goods of all Pacific Rim countries as well — with the emphasis on India, China and Japan.

Some shops might be remodelled and in business by September but it likely would be Christmas before the whole project could have its official opening.

Stores selling Chinese goods would try to recapture the atmosphere of early Chinatown as much as possible.

It is understood that if successful the project could be expanded to other sections of Chinatown, with the long-range aim of revitalizing that complete section of the city.

Most of the shops involved in the first stage of development are already empty, although some people are renting upstairs rooms at present.

Much of the expense of the preliminary stage of development will be involved in new plumbing and electrical installations.

Signing of documents to launch the project is set for 4:30 p.m. Thursday at the company's headquarters, 1249 Rockland Avenue.

Civic and senior government officials have been invited to participate in the ceremony.

Murder Bid Charged In Downtown Stabbing

A 41-year-old Dallas Road man was charged in provincial court today with attempted murder in the knifing of another man in a downtown doorway Sunday afternoon.

Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre registered a mandatory plea of not guilty for Royden Gaylord Morrison, 132 Dallas.

He was remanded in custody to July 10 to fix a date for preliminary hearing.

Michael Borushko, 40, of 1310 Government, was found slumped over in the entrance to 578 Yates at 12:23 p.m. Police arrested Morrison in the area seven minutes later.

Borushko had been stabbed once in the centre of the chest.

The hospital spokesman said the victim was in "very bad shape" when he was admitted, and is being watched closely in the intensive care unit.

TRUCKERS SIGN PACT

Agreement with southern Vancouver Island gravel truckers has been reached by Island Equipment Operators' Association boosting pay and fringe benefits an average 10 per cent.

About 100 drivers are covered in the new contract with Teamsters Union local 213 for two years retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972. Fifteen companies are represented by the association.

Spokesman John Chew, chairman of IEOA bargaining committee, said the two-stage increase would result in rates of $5.06-$5.30 an hour for dump truck drivers this year and $5.51-$5.75 from Jan. 1 next year.

He said negotiations continue with the Operating Engineers union.

Sun Lures Crowds Outdoors

Keeping cool was the order of the weekend as Victoria sun-lovers flocked to outdoor recreational areas and beaches to seek relief from 80-degree temperatures.

Victoria weather office reported a high of 81 degrees Sunday and today could be the hottest this year with a possible 88 degrees. The hottest day so far was May 28 with 83 degrees.

Local boaters crowded marinas and harbors while campers set up three and four tents and trailers per campsite. Parks and picnic sites were equally crowded.

RCMP officers, who augmented their forces to control the crowds at Long Beach and Salt Spring Island said both area were fairly quiet.

B.C. Ferries officials said there were no tie-ups at ferry terminals although some ferry travellers reported two-hour delays.

RCMP detachments at Colwood, Sooke and Sidney said crowds were well-behaved in their respective areas and there were no traffic fatalities.

Nuns Request Zoning Rule

Saanich council has received its first application under legislation permitting a land use contract to be drawn up for special development projects.

The application was made by the law firm of Sullivan, Smith and Bigelow on behalf of the Sisters of St. Ann for their Queenswood House of Studies at 2494 Arbutus.

At present, the house of studies is non-conforming to zoning in its neighborhood, which consists largely of single family housing.

If in future the sisters wished to alter the land use they would have to apply for an amendment to the contract.

Tagna Named Champ Goat

Willis School Lists Awards

Margareta Dijak won the $50 I.O.D.E. scholarship and topped the Grade 10 academic awards list.

The school athletic cup went to Lori Skinner and Duncan MacDonald. Top vocational student was Doug Muir and the Science Plaque was taken by Trevor McLeod.

Citizenship cups went to Debbie Pynn, Grade 8, Shannon Lezetc and Annie Krankevic, Grade 9, and Gerry Justice, Grade 10.

Developer's Deal Opposed by Bunn

A long-time member of the Oak Bay Recreation Commission is adamantly opposed to the controversial swap proposal of Farmer Construction Ltd.

Peter Bunn, a member of the commission for 10 years, has written Mayor Frances Elford and council members, deploring Farmer's suggestion that it be handed the 9.3-acre former riding academy site in exchange for building a curling-ice hockey centre.

Farmer hopes to build three 12-storey towers and 50 town houses on the site.

Council voted 4-3 against putting the swap proposal to referendum at its June 19 meeting.

In his letter, Bunn says "I compliment the far-sighted and economically aware aldermen who have seen through this proposed venture."

However, the mayor is encouraging a campaign by members of the Oak Bay Recreation Action Group, who are carrying out a canvass for support of the Farmer proposal.

Bunn asserts his "full support for a recreation complex with swimming pool" but says he would not support the Farmer proposal under any circumstances.

He suggests to council:

"Surely it is up to our elected council (with advice from its administration and sports groups) to define the community recreational needs, to interpret these into a physical plant, complete with a price tag, and then by referendum ask all the people who will 'pay the piper' whether or not it's 'their tune'".

SIDNEY'S MISS MERMAID, Alison Pennie, 1041 Resthaven, reigned over the town's July 1 celebrations Saturday which included red coated Mounties and even one reluctant sheep representing the Sidney recreation commission.
